WHIG & ADVOCATE.

EASTON MD,

TUESDAY MORNING, JUNE 19, 1838.

DEMOCRATIC REPUBLICAN NOMINATION.

FOR GOVERNOR.

WILLIAM GRASON,

OF QUEEN ANN'S.

Farmers represent the prospect for abundant crops better this season than it has been for many years. The backwardness of the season, however, may retard the summer crops a little. In addition to the prospect with us, we scarcely open a paper that does not give the most cheering intelligence of an abundant return for the labor of the husbandman.

Since writing the above a gentleman has left at our office a small parcel of wheat injured by a worm, (a number of which he has also left) requesting us to show the worm to those farmers who may call at our office, and endeavor to ascertain if it is a new enemy to wheat. He informs us that it secretes itself during the day under the fallen wheat or in the crevices of the ground, and emits its deprecations at night. It first destroys the blades before it touches the head, which from the sample before us shows a progressive destruction of the entire growth. The prospects of a most luxuriant lot of wheat are partially destroyed by this unknown visitant, which we sincerely hope may not make its appearance among the flourishing crops that greet us generally throughout the county. The worm is upwards of an inch in length and is said to resemble what is commonly called the Grub-worm. Query: May not this be the Grain worm of the North?

We must beg further indulgence for delaying the publication of "an extract" which has been selected for publication in the Whig. It shall positively appear next week.

Answer to Enigma last week—"Ship-lifter."

THE LADY'S BOOK.—We acknowledge the receipt of the June No of this valuable and interesting periodical.

The Hon. James Buchanan will please accept our thanks for various public documents.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.—The administration party of this State have elected all the officers of both branches of the Legislature.

Some amendments have been recently made to the remaining portion of the City of Baltimore, &c, supposed to be the work of incendiaries!

PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

It requires but little extent of political sagacity or depth of observation, to discern the evident tendency of the County School Law which has been literally crammed down the throats of the people. The old law, probably a little onerous at the commencement from the fact of necessary expenditures being incurred in purchasing sites and building of school-houses, but which will not again occur, was in the full tide of successful experiment, when it was suddenly arrested by the passage of the law of the last session of the Legislature.

When the old law was brought before the people for their ratification (which privilege has been denied by the new law) what was the result? It received the almost unanimous vote of the electors of the county. Out of upwards of twelve hundred voters, their could be mustered only the meagre number of 179 against it—among which handful, however, were several prominent gentlemen of the whig party, which is corroborative of the insincerity of their professions, and the secret of the passage of the late law. This is visiting retributive justice upon the people with a vengeance; for we very much doubt but alter the most extraordinary efforts whether the memorials praying for a repeal of the old law, had one-sixth part of the voters of the county affixed to them, yet it was upon their representation that the harmony of the old system was broken up and a new organization substituted that must ultimately prove destructive of the very ends which it falsely professes to attain. Mr. Kerr & Mr. Denny were both opposed to the old law at the time of its ratification; the opinions of Messrs. Jump and Boyles are unknown to us. Was Mr. Kerr afraid to stake his popularity the first year he was elected by tampering with the system, or did he leave this great act which was to be a monument to his philanthropy and an everlasting record of his political wisdom, to the second year, when he knew by the established usage of his party in this county, he would be compelled to make room for some other aspirant among the many that crowd the ranks of the opposition? If we remember correctly, not a word was publicly uttered throughout the whole campaign by him, or his party, relative to a change in the Primary School System under the operation of the old law. In secret convulse he may have received his orders and promised to do the work which he has. Let us save the ticket—break up the old law—gratify the rich, who will take care of the poor—and the odium, if any, can be shuffled off the shoulders of the party, by the apparent fact of taking up new candidates at the next election, who can accommodate their views to the feelings of the people—such unquestionably were the concoctings those who profess to rule the Whig party of Talbot, if there is any force to be attached to presumptive facts and developments. It is vain for these men to suppose the people have no penetration enough to see through their movements? When the delegates of this county of a former year, had brought upon themselves the odium of all liberal minded men of their party, for aiding and abetting in the passage of the Indemnity Law, and their fate was apparent, those men were dropped by their caucus and a new set of candidates presented.

The new ticket disclaimed any participation in the infamous measure, and endeavored by every stratagem to keep it from the view of the people, and by that means, aided by the powerful excitement attendant upon the course of the "Nineteen Electors" succeeded in being elected. Not a word was said about the school law, either before or after the election, and the delegates to the Legislature wisely knowing that their success at the next succeeding campaign depended on their silence, silence was strictly observed, though the hatred it would appear that was evidently entertained to the measure was kept alive. At the last election they again succeeded. Then Mr. Kerr took the responsibility of capriciously doing what he has, knowing that the reign of succession would remove him from the indignation of the people, and Mr. Denny not intending to stand a poll, followed in the "foot-steps of his illustrious" fuleman. What became of the remaining two delegates, does not appear. They may again be before the people, and they played their game accordingly.

This was trick against trick—a downright counterplot; and it now remains to be seen whether the people will consent to be longer dragged to and fro by these political juggernauts, or at once break the allegiance that ignobly binds them to a party whose leaders have revelled and surfeited in the spoils extorted from the hand of industry through the ruinous policy they have for years been pursuing. We go for the welfare of the whole people, and against any enactment that discriminates between the children of the rich and the poor.

GOVERNORIAL CONVENTION.

To William Grason, Esq. Queen Ann's county, Maryland. Baltimore, May 31st, 1838.

Dear Sir—The Democratic Republican convention for the nomination of a candidate for the office of Governor of this State, have designated you as their candidate for that distinguished station; and have constituted us a committee to address you a letter apprising you of the nomination. In discharging this duty, it gives us pleasure to say that the convention was unanimously attended, that your nomination, in a committee consisting of one member from each county and city, was unanimous, and was received and adopted with such cheering unanimity, as will, we hope, successfully appeal to your devotion to the public will.

In tendering this nomination, we add our best wishes for your success, & unalloyed confidence in your devotion to the laws, institutions and welfare of our beloved State.

We are, with great respect, your fellow citizens,

TOBIAS E. STANSBURY, Pres. of convention.

H. G. S. Key, Charles S. Sewall, Casper Quinn, Wm. Whiteley, David Brookhart, Washington Duvall, William Jackson, John D. Brooke, Samuel Dickinson. Vice Presidents

JUNE 3, 1838.

Dear Sir—I have received the letter of the committee, of which you are the chairman, informing me that the Democratic Republican Convention lately held in the city of Baltimore, had nominated me as a candidate for the office of Governor of the State. The confidence thus reposed in me by my fellow citizens, is the more gratifying, because I have never at any period of my life, applied for an office, or pretended to any claim to political distinction, or attempted to interfere with meetings, or individuals, for the purpose of procuring my own nomination. Since under such circumstances, it gives me pleasure to comply with their wishes; and whether elected or not, I shall always reflect with pride upon this evidence of their approbation.

I am much obliged to you and the committee, for the friendly sentiments contained in your letter; and for the confidence expressed in my attachment to the laws, institutions and welfare of the State. The professions and pledges of a candidate are entitled to but little weight; his past conduct being the only security, which can be relied upon, for the correctness of his subsequent course. The part I have taken in public affairs has been of no title consequence to be generally known; but I cheerfully submit it to the investigation of the people.

I am, very respectfully, Your obedient servant, Wm. GRASON.

To General Tobias E. Stansbury, GEORGE WASHINGTON, AN ORIGINAL LOCO-FOCO, &c.

We publish the annexed letter, that the people may see the opinions of the father of his country, on the important subject of paper currency.
