Company Changes. At a special meeting of the directory of the Barton and Georges Creek Valley coal company Friday afternoon of last week, H. Crawford Black, of Baltimore, president, in the chair, the following paper was offered and ador ted: Resolved. That in the death of Mr. Owen Hitchins each of us have lost a friend and adviser, and this company a wise director and an efficient superiniendent. He was the originator of this company and its leading director and superintendent from the time of its organization up to the time of his death. Through him its property has been developed Influenza and catarrhal complications, and made valuable, and he has in the management of its affairs displayed great energy and ability, and Frostburg has lost one of its most progressive citizens, and Allegany county one of its foremost men. Adam E. Hitchins, of the directory, was elected Superintendent, the important position made vacant by the lamented death of his brother, and There will hold me when I start out as W. E. G. Hitchins, son of the deceased, was elected a director, vice A.

in the proper issue of the JOURNAL concerning the lecture delivered in the English Lutheran church on Tuesday elder:

evening, March 14. An account now, therefore, will not be amiss. The lecturer of the evening was Rev. E. H. Delk, of Hagerstown. Although Mr. Delk does not pursue lecturing as a profession, but only as a diversion, he showed himself more than adequate to meet the expectations of his audience. Both as a thinker aud a speaker he was a decided success. His audience followed him with rapt attention and keen appreciation throughout the hour and a quarter during which he pictured "The Man on the Other Side." It is not the present purpose to analyze the lecture—an attempt which could not do it justice. All that is intended is simply to state that what Mr. Delk said abounded in clear, clean-cut common sense-sound advice judiciously tempered with the spice of humor to make it the more palatableand was altogether what it should have that your daughter, Mamie, has been imbeen for the time and place. The proving ever since she has been there, but hearty commendations heard on all that her case is one in which the progress sides when the lecture was over told how it had been enjoyed by those who heard it. It was especially adapted to couragingly of her recovery that I am more the lop-sided, wall-eyed, one-idead people who form no inconsiderable part of every community—that class whose outlook needs to be broadened right and that everybody else is Patch, Pa., yesterday morning, in the wrong needs to be overhauled.
