

out of him, or out of his creditors, ~~Other~~ The course, which the business took before the Court— Judge Earles suggestion and willingness to postpone the ratification of the sale till the May term and his then agreeing <sup>to make & meet</sup> ~~to make~~ a special adjournment for this single piece of business (no very usual case) has I fear connected him with the supposed speculation.— The idea that the speculation of the chief judge should produce an effect on the course of the business of the court—I fear too however unpleasant, this also has gone abroad—

I have been intending for a week or two; and nothing but excessive and harsening engagements, have prevented me from writing, and begging you to throw this purchase up, and wash your hands of it— And now I have a piece of information to give you, that, even should you take the above course, may have the effect to prevent your best motives from obtaining due credit—

It seems, that the judgement, which stands third in age, and <sup>is older than</sup> ~~before~~ the Bank judgements— is the judgement of the Executors of William Hensley
