

Encyclopaedia

Philadelphia, January 10th 1814.

The Publishers after returning their sincere acknowledgements to such of their Patrons who have been punctual in their payments, find themselves under the necessity of calling the attention of many others who are in arrears to the terms of Subscription, which are Cash on the delivery of each half volume.

From the very great expense incurred in the publication of this work, and the great delinquency on the part of many of our subscribers, much inconvenience has been sustained, it is therefore hoped, that those who are in arrears will without delay pay the amount due to the several agents, who are respectfully solicited to remit whatever sums may be in their hands, as speedily as possible.

John T. Johnson Esqr

D. to 3 vols Encyclopaedia

J. H. Johnson

Rec. 1814 Feb. 16th payment in full for the above
Gregory Servant