

To HAVANA SMOKERS everywhere

The peculiar oily, spicy richness of Havana leaf, in years when the crops were right, is probably what made you a smoker of Havana cigars.

We won't argue the question of price—we will leave that out of the comparison. But if you will waive skeptical smiles and seriously heed a suggestion, you will discover something important. Learn the highly rich edge of and the delicate substance to their flavor. They will positively give you that pleasure and supreme comfort only obtainable from richest and costliest cigars.

LUCKE'S

These goods are expressly made for the purpose of proving to the American smoker that there is no use in paying more than 5 cents for a perfect cigar.

To those used to ordinary five-cent cigars, the first "Import" may seem odd (champagne tastes a bit odd after cider) but smoke a number; you'll soon discover you've doubled the pleasure and comfort of your smoking.

On sale now at most of the better-class cigar stands in all large cities, at five cents.

If your dealer doesn't keep them as yet, see special offer on opposite page.
