

every wind and tide. The individuals who man. They permit no one to board either as friends or enemies, thereby closing the only avenue to proof of an identification of the offenders.

We believe that nothing but arm of the Executive, erected in corresponding to the exigencies and -ces of the case, can reform and these lawless plunderers, and protect property and rights of our people, from the Cupidity and Violence of desperate and daring men.

We therefore humbly pray the Legislature to bestow their serious attention upon the subject and to pass such law as may be necessary and proper to maintain the character and dignity of our Government the supremacy of its laws, and the rights and property of its ^{citizens} subjects, and as in duty bound we will ever pray, &c.
