

that I should pay for an intencio^{alone} enhancement of the price of barley. — This piece of experience has led me to determine never to agree to give the rising price in my future bargains unless the money is all to remain unpaid till the whole is demanded by which the inconvenience just mentioned will be obviated — Should Col. Lloyd accept this proposal I have not objection to giving him security for his money — In case of his acceptance I beg the favor of you to have the grain well examined before it is removed lest it should have received detriment by lying in a heap — this is of the more consequence as it has been so long out of the straw.

I am intirely satisfied with the commission you mention of 5 $\frac{1}{2}$ $\frac{1}{2}$ and think myself much indebted to you for the attention you have been pleas'd to shew in this affair — I flatter myself in future times I shall be enabled to make it a concern more deservin such attention

I am Sir

Wm Hemsted
Esq

Your faithful humble Servant
