

A Yes.

THE EXAMINER: All right, Mr. Whiteley, go on.

BY MR. WHITELEY:

Q Now, will you state, Mr. Emery, you were engaged on during your period of employment by the American Cyanamide Company?

MR. SMITH: Mr. Examiner, I understand you wanted to reserve your judgment?

THE EXAMINER: Yes. I cannot think what he is going to bring out. I cannot rule now without knowing the facts and I want to see where it leads to and what connection it has with the Aluminum Company of America and I will reserve my decision about it.

MR. SMITH: Are you going to let the evidence go on?

THE EXAMINER: Yes, I will listen to a motion on your part when we are all through.

MR. SMITH: We object to the questions for the reason stated and ask that we be given an exception.

THE EXAMINER: You may have the exception.

MR. WHITELEY: Of course, it is understood, Mr. Examiner, this testimony is to be later connected up by counsel for the Commission as outlined in the answer to the query of Mr. Smith.

THE EXAMINER: If it is not connected up I will
