

Q That is what your counsel said?

A That is what I was advised.

Q Who advised you?

THE EXAMINER: Your attorney, I believe you said.

BY MR. SMITH:

Q You needn't be afraid to be linked up with an attorney, that won't hurt you.

A I don't remember the exact date of the advice.

Q I don't think we ought to be at cross-purposes on plain things like that. Anyhow on that theory you had this litigation started, that is to say, because Mrs. Hubbard at one time having employed Mr. Humphreys at one time as her lawyer, there was a confidential relationship between them, therefore he could not buy his client's property.

A That is right.

Q Who was your counsel?

A Francis Diaz.

Q Was there any other counsel?

A Various.

Q Who was the others?

A P. N. Brown.

Q Did he represent you?

A A barrister named Woolford. I think his name was Eustace Woolford.
