Dear Lloyd:

Your letter received this morning and I appreciate your efforts to secure the money requested. I am sorry you have not been successful but hope you will be very soon. The amount of capital involved means a great deal more to me now than it will ever be again and my need of it is very great. Do your best to get it to me by or before the 15th.

Sister wrote me that she thought it best not to avail herself of my invitation and I think she intends to remain in New York or go somewhere for the summer. Mother is trying to arrange for her with a friend who needs a companion and if the arrangement is put through it should take care of her for the summer at least.

With kind regards,

Sincerely yours,

Mr. L. T. Emory,
