PENN CHARTER GIVE ANNUAL

Literary Society Presents "E Take Girls' Roles

The Penn Charter Literary Society presented "Brewster's Millions" last night in the ballroom of the Bellevue-Stratford on the occasion of its twenty-third annual dance.

Thomas Frame took the part of Monty Brewster, the male lead. Thomas Taylor, president of the Literary Society, as Subway Smith; George Joly, as Monsieur Barges; Clinton Adams, as Rawles, the butler, and Barney Berlinger, president of the senior class of the William Penn Charter School and captain of its football team, as the captain of the yacht Flitter, were other principals in the play. Clark Hanna and William Chaffee also took important parts.

The six "girls" in the play acted their parts in convincing manner. William Peace played the role of Peggy Gray, the ingenue; William Steele, 3d, appeared as Mrs. DeMille, the chap-
