Dear Sir:

My mare foaled the night of Aug 28th. It is a fine large ^{boned} horse colt, but very thin, the mare does not seem to be a good milker, she is very fat, which shows her food does not produce the milk it should. The mare is in a clover pasture and gets two feeds of oats a day and one brand mash. I am anxious to give this colt the best show possible, can you suggest anything which will improve the mare's flow of milk?

I have watched, with much pleasure, the success of Happy Bee this summer and hope to produce one like her.

Has Happy Lady done anything since her Washington performance?

Very resp'y
F. S. Smith
