

Baltimore Feby 17th / 95.

E. B. Emory Esq,

My Dear Sir.

Yours of 14th Inst to hand. I am glad to state that the Colt "Canteen", does improve upon acquaintance, though all the information I am prepared to give you of him is that he is a good feeder. We have not had a mild day since the one the little fellow arrived here. (they both behaved very well through the streets at that time) so he has not been out side of the stable yet, owing to icy streets and snow banks, he has a good Box stall, is regularly groomed and occasionally gets a little walking in the Isle, the weather is milder now and I hope to get him out in a "Bitten rig" this week to let him become acquainted with sights and sounds of the City, and will hook him up as soon as the roads are in Condition. I will not place him in the hands of any trainer unless he shows signs of speed, as I prefer to train and educate them myself, I have been doing so all my life, and like it for a pastime and generally make it pay, and then I am
