It was his promise of speed alone that seduced him.

I should like to breed colts that failing in speed would bring good prices on their appearance. That is true but would have a little margin on the cost of raising them.

I cannot if I could, be certain of great speed I would say damn the appearance but no body can guarantee that, and he cannot expect it.

However I would like to hear from you as to the mare you have in sight, regarding breeding, appearance &c

I expect to buy a mare at some time and when I do buy I would like to do so with the benefit of your experience and judgment. Whatever they I will breed to Russell. Hoping that this will not take your time too severely I am

Yours sincerely
