

up a little earlier than half-past seven and studies before breakfast.

He also has to go to recitations from half-past three to half-past four on two days of the week.

We both sleep very well and eat a lot.

Last night we went into to Boston to see "Prince Pro Tem." We did not think that it was very good, but we enjoyed it all the same. By "we," I mean of course Ed, and Clem and myself.

They are trying to revive lacrosse up here, and we are all going to get sticks and practise every day, theoretically.

With much love, I remain

Thy Loving Son,
Howard.
