Satisfied when he thought we had forgotten nothing.
His instinct told him that could not be, and he was right.

I left the house comfortable for Cousin Emily, and the boys say their first dinner was a good one and well cooked. Emily felt homesick when we left but said she supposed she would get used to it. She was a little nervous too at the idea of having to please Father, but I think she
