

10 At daylight this three days on the weather being oppressive & the temperature the sea all sail and we with the light went in the from light winds we could not see her and after dark hauled out to the NW

11 At daylight nothing in sight the wind coming round to the NW we tacked when the wind coming more to the SW and filled with SS

12 The wind continued to the NW with a heavy swell - Bordered a brig from St. Michael bound to Lisbon 20th June In the evening wind veered more to the SW and evening as the night came on 13 - Strong Gale all night at daylight altered the course to West at noon found our to be in the Gulf of Mexico - at day changed the course to NW In the evening the wind fell considerably

14 - the wind continued variable

15 As yet today light breeze continuing to the Westward

16 The wind variable from SW to NW Nothing in sight - Increased the
