

Bellerophon at Sea 30 May 1814

Sir,

I embrace the opportunity which the Holverene charged with the Nova Scotia Convoy affords of acquainting you of my arrival on the Banks of Newfoundland on my passage towards St. John's, to which I shall proceed direct after having seen the Quebec Convoy a degree or two more to the Westward.

As the Newfoundland Command touches on the highly important one with which you are charged, it will afford me pleasure to enter into your views and arrangements for the protection

Vice Admiral
The Hon<sup>ble</sup> Sir Alex<sup>r</sup> Cochrane K.B.
Commander in Chief
