

is however to be hoped that as our Government has no longer such great demands to attend to in other Quarters more adequate supplies for our Consumption on this Station may be soon looked for, and I take for granted the Storekeeper of Bermuda Yard has some time since written both to Halifax and to England specifying the Articles of which he is in immediate want.

I have not judged it necessary to order the Dream to Bermuda to be refitted as she need not be much exposed to suffer from bad weather whilst executing the Service she is now employed upon
