

as a model for him, it will be necessary for him to know the size of the long guns you intend to put on those for him to make the carriages to suit, as there is a difference in the thickness of the long 18 pounders sent from Washington the shortest being the thickest at the trunnions. Please to inform me if I am to have the sails, anchors. Galley be prepared at this place for the above Barges.

In a letter from Mr. Turner (Accountant) to Mr. Ennis our purser, of the 27th Inst. he says, "It does not appear by the Register that there are any such officers in the service as Solomon Rutter, John M. Breese & John Kiddle."

Mr. Rutter was appointed by letter, Mr. Breese by warrant.

Mr. Kiddle is one of those I had the honour to name you, and was appointed Acting Master by me.

also Mr. Beebe who commanded the Baltimore Gallies these two gentlemen, as also Mr. Martin & Mr. Morand were named to you particularly when I was last down and you took a list of them - Mr. Morand has left in consequence of not receiving a warrant, the other
