

Denton, Nov 26th 1835

Rev. Sir,

I should have written sooner, but could not before the present mail say positively what Mr White would do and I was somewhat in hopes Pemberton would have an opportunity, as his wife was for a number of days not expected to live but a short time.

She died, about a week since, & not withstanding his promise to you, that he would go when she died, he now says he can not take his
