My Dear Sir,

At 11 $\frac{1}{2}$ A. M. on Friday, I rec^d your letter. At 5 P. M. the editorial was in the hands of the printer, by 12 the next day the proof sheet was read and corrected by me, and this morning they will begin to strike off. I hope you will be pleased. I have desired both Mr.
Proyle & Mr. Tenain to send you a copy of the Journal immediately - hoping that before the time you will get one. I leave for Camp Meeting at 8 $\frac{3}{4}$ O'clock this morning but on my return shall see the gentleman about the Premier Press.

Please say to your brother-in-law, and immediately attended to the matter he requested.

Rejoiced to hear of your improvement in health, and praying it may be speedily and entirely restored.

I am

Yours respectfully

J. Proyle
