Dear Sir,

I had the pleasure of receiving your favor this morning, and I desire to express my most hearty thanks for the thoughtful interest it manifests in the subject it relates to, and for the personal kindness in so readily giving me the opinion of awaiting myself of the opportunity I asked. I felt a sort of pang that the meddling and inconsiderate officiousness of any one here should have been instrumental in removing a master that you speak so well of as you do of Capt. Lovell, and by the way, who is spoken so well of as he is by Post. Roberts and Mr. Washington, who were lately passengers with him. I hope, however, Capt. Baker may not only have a good seamanship and well sailed every way for his position, but that he may be a good
