Gentlemen

As the time for the gathering of our emigrants into Baltimore draws I am constrained to inquire if we cannot make some other & better arrangements for their comfort there?
The complaints are becoming more & more urgent & numerous - & from the best class of our people. And those who went from the north are writing home cautioning their friends not to come to Balt. & if they are compelled to come there, whenever they go, not to go to Mrs. Adams. You know how we have to contend against the free port influence - how hard it is get them to come to Balt. "any how." I submit therefore, what we do in the premises?

Yours most truly,
