The deceased had been an invalid for several years. She was a most patient sufferer for years and always appreciated so much the loving ministrations of her dutiful daughter and those about her. She was a christian in the broad and true sense of the word and carried sunshine to all who came under her influence. She is survived by two children—Mrs. A. W. Carmine, Chestertown, and Mr. Wm. E. Temple, of Cambridge. Funeral services were held Tuesday conducted by Dr. L. E. Barrett. Interment was in Church Hill cemetery, undertaker, Chas. L. Dodd. He made his home with Col. and Mrs. A. H. Suplee at Betterton for a number of years, Mrs. Suplee being his daughter. He was a man of retiring disposition, and attended strictly to his own business giving all of his time to the cultivation of truck at Col. Suplee's, Idlewhile Park, at Betterton.

ROCK HALL NOTES.

The re-opening exercises at the Adventist church on Friday, Saturday and Sunday were exceedingly interesting and successful in every way. Elders R. T. Bear, F. W. Papp and Mr. Thumbler were in attendance and preached. The music under the supervision of Prof. Coffin was brimming with inspiration. The interior of the church was tastefully and happily arranged. The congregations were large and everybody realized that it was "good to be there." The recent improvements to the church consisted of plastering the interior above the wainscoating, new lighting plant, new carpet, new organ and new choir loft and the edifice was newly roofed. The entire cost was about $900. About $800 was raised. The workmen as a rule whether members of the church or not donated their work and made liberal cash donations besides. The membership contributed generously and many non-members responded liberally. The visiting Elders were highly pleased at the success of the improvements and contributions for the same.

Well, Mr. Marbury came, he saw, but he didn't conquer much because there was not much to conquer. The weather man treated him badly, however a fair attendance of progressives, conservatives, G. O. P.'s, two Bull Mooseis and a few independents heard him on Saturday evening. The comments are various.

MILLINGTON POSTOFFICE

Mr. Finley Collins, Recommended By W. L. Marbury, of Baltimore, Likely to Receive Appointment—Strong Delegation Offer Four Other Names—Postmaster General Burleson's Significant Interview With Congressman Covington And Kent County Democrats.

United States Senator John Walter Smith has not yet reached the bridge and, therefore, cannot cross it, but he is being hurried toward it at a pretty rapid rate. That bridge is his attitude toward postmasters appointed on the Eastern Shore on the recommendation of W. L. Marbury, who is his Democratic rival for the Senate, and who, according to records of the Postoffice Department in Washington, is from time to time submitting names of applicants favored by him. It is a pretty well-established fact he is pursuing this course with the approval of the President for the purpose of influencing votes.

Organization friends of Senator Smith on the Eastern Shore have approached him to ascertain what his attitude will be toward appointments of antiorganization Democrats nominated on Mr. Marbury's endorsement. The Senator has replied that while he has not yet reached the bridge, he has always stood by his friends, by those who have stood by him and, while not willing to commit himself on an isolated appointment or on a general policy, he is not willing to stand idly by and see himself, Congressman Covington and other friends on the Eastern Shore sidetracked and their recommendations supplanted by those of a Baltimorean.

The Senator has plainly indicated that, although he will stand by President Wilson in enacting all the legislation promised by the Baltimore national platform, he is not in mood to stand by him in appointments of Democrats who are trying to defeat him. He will interpose no objection to the confirmation of Col. Sherlock Swann as postmaster of Baltimore, since he is not a voter in that city. He claims, however, that he is entitled to consultation and consideration in the appointments on the Eastern Shore.

Congressman Covington and a delegation of Kent county Democrats who called at the Postoffice Department in Washington Monday had an interesting interview with Postmaster General Burleson. During the interview interesting information was imparted to them. They called to urge the appointment of one of these, B. W. Duling, N. A. Wallen, C. B. Dudley or E. F. Vansant as postmaster at Millington, Kent county. Mr. Burleson plainly indicated to his visitors that Mr. Collins who is endorsed by Mr. Marbury, will be nominated.

The visitors were informed that the President has reserved the Baltimore and Millington postoffices for Mr. Marbury's friends to demonstrate his friendship for the antiorganization candidate for the Senate.

Indorsements Displayed.

While the Marylanders made no personal objection to Mr. Collins they pointed to the fact that he had the support of only 10 per cent of the patrons of the office and was not supported by the regular party organization in the county.

It was also stated that Mr. Collins would not give the office all his attention. Mr. Burleson said this was necessary and would wait to hear from Mr. Collins on this point.

The questions which now interest Eastern Shoremen is whether the President and Postmaster General Burleson will limit their antiorganization appointments on the Shore to the Millington postoffice, whether other offices will be included and what position Senator Smith will take when the appointments of Democrats antagonistic to himself and his friends are sent to the Senate.

The Democratic State Central Committee for Somerset county has refused to indorse the applications of candidates for postoffices in the county.
