Ice-Cream and Strawberry Festival

The Epworth League of Still Pond
A Strawberry Festival will hold,
A Festival rare you'll sure declare
When all its features are told.
The date of this rare festival
Is the TWENTY-FOURTH OF MAY,
In the vacant store in the centre of the town,
A suitable place and day.
Don't bother to bake your Sunday cakes,
For cakes there be a plenty;
For an Alphabet Cake Sale, too, will be held,
Cakes to suit the taste of any.
There'll be a Flower-Bed there to attract
The children, both big and small;
For ten cents each a bloom can be had,
A prize for each and all.
So don't fail to come—the family all—
We think you'll all be pleased;
And you'll have helped our bran-new church walk,
And done a worthy deed. my10 3t

CHARMED OUT OF $325.

Sanger's Show Carries a Band of Fakirs —Farmer in Caroline Relieved of a Good Sum.

Sanger's Show which pitched its tents in Chestertown Friday was accompanied by a gang of fakirs similar to "olden times.,' It has been some pears since complaints as came Friday followed a circus. One man lost $10 in changing money while another lost $5, each recovered their money. Another citizen banboozeled into buying six razors at $1 each! The shell game caught a good many but the "stool pigeons" got away with $7 of the showmen's good money.

Deputy Sheriff Temple, of Denton, accompanied Mr. Hobbs, a farmer aged 70, to Chestertown looking for his money. Mr. Hobbs was relieved of $325 in cash in a small tent attached to one of the sideshows. He says he went to see the snake charmer and was asked to step in the small tent for awhile, and he would be shown the snakes at feeding time. When he recovered consciousness his money was gone, the explanation being that he was hypnotized and handed his roll over to a women. He went to Dover Thursday with Deputy Temple but could not find the women he alleges got his money. The farmer recently sold his stock and carried it in his pocket. He came here Friday and States Attorney Vickers and Sheriff McKee assited him in recovering his $325.

A wheel of fortune reaped a rich harvest, gathering in sums of $57 downward from "sports" who thought they could beat it, the losers in nearly every instance being hardworking men whom the day's outing means distress.

The American of Tuesday has the following:

"In his efforts to recover $575, out of which he was fleeced by a circus sharper a few days ago, Hebron Outten, of Burrsville, near Denton, Caroline county, a respected retired farmer, arrived here yesterday afternoon seeking the aid of the local police. Outten was accompanied by a lawyer from Denton, and immediately after their arrival here they went to the office of Capt. of Detectives McGovern. Outten wanted Captain McGovern to detail a detective to accompany him to Annapolis, where the show is playing and where Outten thinks he can recover his money. Captain McGovern told Outten he could not send a man with him, as it was not a matter of any interest to the city, although he could take the matter up with Marshal Farnan.

"Outten is one of the many who fell for the story of the circus barker. Last Wednesday the circus was in Denton and all the country folks turned out to see the big show. Outten was among the spectators. Before going in to see the big show he visited the side shows. While waiting for the hour to feed the snakes, it is said, one of the sharpers took Outten aside and showed him an electric belt said to have marvelous powers. Outten, it is said, tried on the belt and was so hyponitized by its powers that he immediately became charmed with it. Convinced that by a small investment thousands of dollars could be realized by the manufacture of the belts, Outten is said to have drawn out nearly $600 from his savings and invested in the scheme. He was not the only one, it is said, as many of his townsmen fell for the same story, although some have succeeded in recovering some of their money."

COWS KICK MAKES HIM TORCH

Middletown N. Y. May 13.—George Jefferson, a farmhand employed near this city, came near being burned to death yesterday, when kicked by a cow.

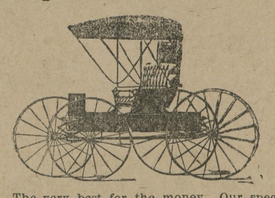

Jefferson carried a box of matches in the rear pocket of his trousers and as he stepped behind a cow while milking the animal landed a hoof directly upon the pocket.

The matches were ignited and Jefferson ran from the barn with his clothing in flames. With the assistance of a man nearby his life was saved.

Jefferson has sworn off smoking.

BULL FROGS are now considered one of the delicacies at the hotels. Mr. M. G. Crouse, at Ridgely, caught 11 dozen one night last week.

DEATHS.

John Newell Dodd died at his home on High street, Chestertown, Saturday, at 6.15 o'clock after an illness of just six days, aged 68 in October. He had been failing in health for several months but his condition did not become alarming until Sunday of last week. The deceased was one of the best known citizens in town and lower Kent having for 45 years engaged in the undertaking business and having officiated at not less than five thousand funerals. He was specially fitted for his work having been tutored by his skilled father and made a high reputation for his extreme thoughtfulness, courtesy and graceful manner. He retired from business about six years ago on account of failing health and within a few years became totally blind. His ability to move about his home, to feed the pigeons, set the table even, and to find various articles was indeed wonderful and at the same time his whistle calling for John, Abe or others was pitiable.

He loved the Methodist Protestant Church and never tired talking of conditions, pastors, etc. His favorite hymn, learned in the Sunday school, was "There is a happy land," and this was sung at his funeral by Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Thompson, Miss Clara B. Usilton and Fred. G. Usilton.

He was for many years cornetist and leader of the famed Kent Cornet Band and took a great interest in music.

He is survived by a widow who was Miss Lucy Smith, a sister to Mrs. W. R. Graham. She was all in all to the deceased and gave to him a devotion and fidelity which was indeed most affecting and worthy of commendation. She was sight to his blinded eyes and a true help-meet. Funeral services were held at his late residence Tuesday conducted by Dr. Walter R. Graham. The bearers were Dr. Harry L. Dodd, Chas. L. Dodd, Wm. F. Russell, Fred. G. Usilton, Wm. R. Maul. J. Newell Graham, Marion deK. Smith and Dr. Frank B. Hines. Interment in Chester cemetery, Charles L. Dodd, in charge.

Myrtle E. Smith, daughter of D. Wilson and Mamie Smith, of Baltimore, died Thursday at 5 p. m., at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Thomas Holdson, on High street, Chestertown, aged 22. The deceased had been employed at O'Neil's, in Baltimore, and came to Chestertown for a few week's rest when gastric fever developed, from which she died. She leaves two sisters, Lillian and Agnes, and two brothers, George and Stanley. The remains were prepared for burial by Undertaker Charles L. Dodd and shipped to Baltimore yesterday, accompanied by her parents and relatives, who had been present at her bedside. Funeral Saturday and interment in Loudon Park cemetery. The bearers at Chestertown were James Crossley, Norman Nelson, Albert Wheat, George Burke, Thos. Holdson, C. L. Dodd.

CATTLE and chickens are not given prizes for beauty alone. They are carefully marked up on an official score card. At the Kent and Queen Anne's fair on August 26 we will hold a Baby Health Contest. Begin now to get your baby ready for it. If you have none get your neighbor interested. Watch this paper for later news.
