Suffered Twenty-One Years—Finally Found Relief

Having suffered for twenty-one years with a pain in my side, I finally have found a relief of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. The physicions called it "Mother's Pain" and injections of morphine were my only relief for short periods of time. I became so sick that I had to undergo a surgical operation in New Orleans, which benefited me for two years. When the same pain came back one day I was so sick that I gave up hopes of living. A friend advised me to try your Swamp-Root and I at once commenced using it. The first bottle did me so much good that I purchased two more bottles. I am now on my second bottle and am feeling like a new woman. I passed a gravel stone as large as a big red bean and several small ones. I have not had the least feeling of pain since taking your Swamp-Root and I feel it my duty to recommend this great medicine to all suffering humanity. Gratefully Yours.

MRS. JOSEPH CONSTANCE,
Avoyelles Par. Marksville, La.

Personally appeared before me, this 15th day of July, 1911 Mrs. Joseph Constance, who subscribed the above statement and made oath that the same is true in substance and in fact,

OLD TIME KENT HARVEST.

Interesting Reminiscences of Methods Fifty Years Ago In This County.

Harvest today is so different from what it used to be that to recall the manner of harvesting the grain in the "Sixties" and of today is an interesting comparison. To those who worked in the grain field those days it will call to mind the pleasant associations of the harvests, and to the farmers of today it will be a surprise as to how they ever gathered large fields of this grain.

It was really hard work, but the big crowd and the coming together of friends and associates made labor sweet—indeed, a picnic.

Weeks before harvest the "cradlers" sharpened their blades and adjusted every finger to its proper tension. Everybody expecting to get a "bit" of money and some expecting a little on old account. So farmers were looking for good cradlers and and good binders as well. Sons of all classes and the idlers engaged themselves. "Harvest" was a harvest. Many a boy, parents of both affluent and needy, were eager for the fields. It meant to the boys a wad of some $8 to $14, and they were wads in those days.

Big, flat straw hats, plaited and made during the long winter nights from the straw of the harvest before, were everywhere invincible, and the tinkling sound from the whetting often of a dozen blades at one time was considered a pretty good orchestra.

Cradlers got $2 50 a day and binders $1. Small boys got jobs carrying together to be shocked. In a field of eight or ten cradlers and as many binders there were in all about 28 or 30 persons.

These men would never cut up and down, but cut to one end and walk back. This was because they would not cut into the wheat. It was truly a pretty sight to see them with one even stroke all together cutting about three feet to the stroke. The work mostly was in the right arm, as the left was used to steady the sneed and lay in piles for the binders, who bound it, not with cord, but of the same material—wheat.

As the sun peeped above the eastern horizon these men with their cradles on shoulder, could be seen marching into position. They would work until nine o'clock and then breakfast, which made the time short from then until noon. In the afternoon about 3 o'clock a bucket of beverage and ginger cakes were brought out to them.

What the boys enjoyed more than anything else was the feast. A boy after working in the "harvest field" all day could eat as much as he pleased and whatever he pleased at the table and top off with a dozen June apples as he went to the field again.

"Harvest" as it was then is no more. Now in the fields can only be seen the reaper with its lonely driver and perhaps two others stacking. Fifty years hence will the boys of 20 or 12 today be able to write of as great a change in gathering or harvesting of this golden grain? We doubt it.

The shades of the locust and old walnut trees, the rows of stalwart men, bowing to the tall, pale soldiers of the grain in regular stride, the shocks in dots over the field, and those big gatherings and notable big dinners are over. We have now no more of this, but the memory is pleasant still and has a twang to it that will never be forgotten by those who still live.

My commi... ...st Monday

Anty Drudge—"Good morning, Mrs. Joyful. I heard you singing as I came along and I just stopped in to tell you how good it sounds. No need to tell you about Fels-Naptha Soap, I see. There'd be more women singing over the tubs, if they'd use Fels-Naptha."

Monday is just as bright and sunshiny as any other day. If you don't think so, it is because you haven't ever used Fels - Naptha Soap.

You can do your wash with cool or lukewarm water, without boiling or hard rubbing, and get it on the line in time to have a rest before starting your midday meal.

Fels - Naptha makes everything brighter, even the skies on Monday.
