TRACTION ENGINES TIED UP

Eastern Shore Farmers Want State Roads Open To Them.

More than 100 farmers and owners of traction engines from Kent, Queen Anne's and Talbot counties met in this town Saturday and organized a protective association with these officers: J. Biddle Hossinger, of Kent, president; James H. Carter, of Queenstown, treasurer, and S. Scott Beck, of Chestertown, secretary.

Resolutions were passed protesting against the present State road law prohibiting traction engines from using the State roads and authorizing the framing of a bill to amend the law. Several owners of traction engines have been arrested recently for running on the State roads. The tie-up of traction engines is placing many farmers in a very embarrassing position now, as a number have sold their corn and cannot get it shelled.

The State Roads Commission says "the protest against the State Road law concerning traction engines using the State roads, it appears, was based on a misunderstanding of the law and of the attitude of the State Roads Commission.

"The law permits the use of the roads by traction engines, provided the wheels are covered with a band to protect the surface of the road from the cleats in the rim of the wheels."

It is understood that the State Roads Commission is willing for traction engines to use the State roads with the proviso stated.

CHRISTMAS EVE IN TOWN.

FIRE ON HIGH STREET

Volunteer Fire Co. Show Their Efficiency By Extinguishing A Bad Looking Blaze.

The clothing and dry good store on High street next door to J. T. DeCorse, opened about a month ago, took fire very mysteriously at noon Thursday while Max Cohen, the proprietor, was at dinner at the Imperial, Harry McWhorter was the first to discover the fire. He says the whole inside of the store seemed to be on fire and that when he opened the door the smoke nearly suffocated him. He thinks the biggest blaze was about in the middle of the store.

L. B. Russell and Wm. A. Wheatley were early on the scene and assisted in removing Miss Hester A. Russell to the Voshell House. Miss R. was living in the second story of the building and was asleep at the time of fire. Her nurse, Miss Smith, detected smoke early and was investigating when others gave the alarm.

J. T. DeCorse, next door, gathered up his valuables, locked his door and ran to assist in extinguishing the blaze.

The Volunteer Fire Co., under Acting Chief Fred. H. Russell, was on the scene promptly and saved the property, although the stock of goods is almost a total loss. Arthur Bradley's agency held $3,000 insurance on the stock, and E. Thos. Massey's agency $2,000. Max Cohen, proprietor, says he left the store at noon to go to his dinner and was startled soon after to hear his place was on fire. He says he can't account for the fire.

The Fire Marshall will be asked to investigate.

Fred. H. Robinson, one of the valiant fire fighters, cut his hand severely by breaking in a window in front of the building.

This stock was owned by Mr. Rosenberg, of Middletown, who has two other stores.

ROAD IMPROVEMENT

Two Miles of State Aid Road Completed Near Betterton in Quick Time—Engineer Jones to be Congratulated.

Two miles of State Aid Road from Betterton to Clarence Crew's corner has been completed, and is pronounced a fine piece of road. Engineer Jones has proved a valuable man on this job and looked after every detail. Although no shells arrived until November 4th; so expeditiously were they handled that 100,000 bushels were hauled from the Ericsson pier and put on this road.

The road is 9 feet wide and with two lavers of shells each 8 inches deep The entire width of the public road is 22 feet, thus leaving plenty of space for engines and those who do not wish to use the hard road. This new road is completed within a half mile of Still Pond cemetery. Another 100,000 bushels of shells has been bought and will be unloaded after Christmas, if the weather permits, and piled along the proposed road.

The estimated cost of this road, grading, &c., is about $5,000 a mile.

During the terrific wind storm of Monday week a barge of 15,000 bushels of shells broke several large hawsers and frightened the captain so that he deserted the "ship." Engineer Jones arose early, went to the pier, and after getting help succeeded in making the barge fast with new ropes and prevented a big loss.

WEDDING BELLS.

Mrs. Fannie J. Lockerman and Mr. James D Moore, both of Millington, were married at the home of the bride on Wednesday evening, by Rev. N. C. Benson, pastor of Asbury M. E. Church. The bride was attired in a handsome white voile and carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and lillies of the valley. The groom wore the conventional black. After the ceremony refreshments were served. Among those present were: Rev. F. C. Benson, Mr. John D. Moore and son, Elwood; Mr. Samuel Cole and sisters, Misses Mollie and Mamie; Mrs. Morgan King, of Middletown; Mr. William King, of Chestertown; Mr. and Mrs. Howard King, of near town; Mr. Gove Everett and son, Alfred, of near Galena, Mr. John Dixon, Mr. Herman Hendrix, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Poore, Mrs. Maggie Galloway, of near Galena; Misses Maggie, Mamie and Katie Donahoe, of Massey.

MALSBERGER—BACON.

One of the prettiest weddings of the season took place Thursday evening, December 4, at the Malone Hotel, when Mrs. M. E. Bacon gave her daughter, Miss Eura Bacon, in marriage to Mr. A. H. Malsberger, Jr. The parlors were beautifully decorated with plants and cut flowers and softly lighted with candles. Promptly at 7.30 the bridal party entered, marching to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by Miss Virginia Mullen. The bride and groom were preceded by the matron of honor, Mrs. C. Bell, and the bridesmaid, Miss E. Bacon, both sisters of the bride. Music was softly played during the ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. D. L. Reese.

The bride wore a gown of shadow lace over white crepe de chene and carried a large bouquet of white American Beauty roses. The groom wore full evening dress. Owing to the heavy rains and floods, the wedding trip had to be postponed, so after the reception the happy couple were driven direct to their new and beautifully furnished home in Malone. The groom is the popular son of Mr and Mrs. A. H. Malsberger, of Massey, Md, and is a graduate of the Virginia Military Institute. At present he is employed as book-keeper in the Malone Bank.

Having adopted Texas as his State, he has taken as his wife one of her sweetest and most accomplished daughters. The presents were numerous and handsome, including furniture, cut glass, linen, silverware, etc. The entire community wishes the couple every blessing and a long and happy life together.—Malone (Tex.) Register.
