SATURDAY, DECEMBER 20 1913.

In the death of Mr. W. F. Wink this community has lost a most popular and representative citizen. Everybody had a kind word for Mr. Wink.

There is need for enforcement of the law regulating traffic on our public highways and for betterment of the laws which will control the rules and rights of the roads as far as automobiles and other vehicles are concerned. Each have rights but neither has all control of the road.

The Eastern Shore Society was formed in Baltimore last week. Clarence W. Perkins, Esq., is vice-president from Kent. Among the other members to date are: Kent County—Dr. John B. Schwatka, Dr. John I. Pennington, L. W. Barroll, N. T. Megginiss, James W. Chapman, Jr., J. Henry Baker, Walter R. Gale, C. W. Perkins, S. C. Pennington, Hyland P. Steward, J. Herman Ireland, David B. Stewart, R. Nelson Stevens, Dr. Henry P. Hynson, Henry P. Hynson, Jr., Arthur B. Wheatley.

William H. Anderson, general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of Maryland, Wednesday sent to the headquarters committee of the organization his resignation to take effect on January 1 next. On that date he will go to New York to become general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of New York, and will at once begin a campaign looking to the abolition of the saloons in the Empire State. His salary will be $5,000. Mr. Anderson is a resourceful and determined leader. The manner in which he is hated by the liquor element is sufficient proof of his efficiency. The fight in this State will go on under a new leader.

THE XMAS SPIRIT

This is the giving season, and therefore the happiest time of the year; for he who gives most loves most, and he who loves most is the happiest. There is, however, just one thing in all the catalogue of gifts the giving of which is sure to satisfy. There is just one thing that every spender may put at the head of the Christmas list, and it will insure the best celebration of the beautiful birthday. No purse is too small, though the value of the gift is beyond price. Without it Christmas is a failure, but joy is sure for the one who receives and the one who gives, when the gift is —SELF.

Be sure in preparing gifts for loved ones that they will care little for your gift unless they know you are giving yourself with it. Be very sure, you husbands who think to satisfy the hunger of a whole year by giving your wives some costly present, that the gift will not satisfy their hunger. They want you. Be very sure, boys, that "pop" is hungry for one thing only, and in the tense silence of his busy, hurried life he is crying out with the voiceless echo of the man in Proverbs, "My son, give me thine heart!"

Let us make this a real happy Xmas by giving more love to those nearest to us, and then to those on the outside of our home circle.

BENEFIT OF FARMERS

Expert Practical Farmer To Be Located In Kent And Encourage Farmers—United States Government and Kent County To Work In Harmony.

Prof. Augustus Stabler, representative from the U. S. Government, agriculture department, was in Chestertown on a second visit Wednesday. He has been in several counties on the Shore where his plan was enthusticall y received as it was in Kent. Directors of all the financial institutions in Chestertown signed a petition to the Legislature asking for authority to ge given the County Commissioners to levy a sum not exceeding $1,000 provided a like amount be given by the Government for purposes herein set forth.

Prof. Stabler in an interview with the News man says:

"The United States Department of Agriculture, aided by the General Education Board, which is financed by John D. Rockerfellow, offer a plan by which the Southern States are to be aided in obtaining a county agent in farm co-operation demonstration work. The objects sought are better farming, better business and better living.

"Better farming is best promoted by showing the farmer on his own farm how to get the best results with the means at his command. It is impossible to visit all the farmers in any county, but we try to select from thirty to fifty men well distributed over the county and so situated that the agent may reach them easily and that other people may see the crops. These men are called demonstrators. Each one agrees to grow a definite area in some staple crop in the very best manner as an example of good farming. The agent agrees to visit these demonstrators once a month and keep in touch with the progress of the work. At these visits he pays particular attention to the condition of the demonstration and makes certain that the demonstrator understands fully just what he is to do next. Thus we furnish not only advice but supervision of the work until results are obtained.

"When a man succeeds in doing something well he can do it again, and can and does tell his neighbors how to do it. Thus the demonstrator becomes a center of progress in his vicinity Around him will be other farmers who desire to follow the same direction, obtaining them through the demonstrator or from the agent, as the case may be. These are known as co-operators. They do not receive regular visits from the agent, but he gives them all of the assistance that he can whenever he meets them,

"It has been found best to begin this work with the adult men. When interest is aroused it is also found that there are certain boys who wish to become demonstrators and the boys in our corn clubs are all enrolled as demonstrators who are setting an example of better farming, and they receive visits from the agent, who gives them the instruction on the farm about growing the crop, harvesting it, saving the seed, etc. In co-operation with the schools the agent aids in organizing these boys into clubs. Before a boy can belong to a club he must be a demonstrator, which means that he must agree to do a definite piece of work according to instructions and report on it.

"In the girls' canning and poultry clubs the same idea is domidant. The girls are demonstrators, but the object is better living conditions, and they are instructed by women, who visit their homes. These women are usually teachers who spend part of their time visiting and organizing the girls under the direction of a State organizer."

The idea is to have an agent for each county who shall be appointed by the Department and whose salary shall be paid equally by the U. S. and Kent county.

The Banks have taken the initiative in this because in a way it is educational and because it seems to be of vital importance not only to the farming but also the business interests of the county. Already seven counties of Maryland have accepted the proposition, and only a limited number of agents have been appointed to Maryland.

STATE GRANGE NOTES.

James T. Anthony received a flattering vote for head of the State Grange but not enough to elect. B. John Black, of Baltimore county, was elected master; James T. Anthony, chaplain. Wm. G. Smyth, of Kent, was elected a member of the committee on the Agricultural College and Experiment Station.

A number of important recommendations to the Grange membership were made. Among these were the importation of nitrate of amonia free of duty as a direct benefit to the farmers of the State; provisions for an extension of the seed and feed inspection work of the state; that the State grind the lime for farmers at its actual cost adding that this will enable them to build up many backward sections and add materially to the yield and at a small cost; the free distribution of hog cholera serum to farmers in emergency cases and to aid the State authorities in promptly stopping the ravages of the disease; that measures be taken to investigate and control the market conditions with a view to the suppression of gambling in the food products at the expense of the farmer; that an appropriation of $100,000 annually be asked for the maintenance of the Agricultural College and that the State acquire by purchase a clear title to the college grounds.

The Grange adopted resolutions heartily indorsing the proposed amendment to the National Constitution, prohibiting the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors. The Grange went on record as favoring the mothers' Pension Bill, and pointed out the necessity for a state attorney to the Grange as well as favoring the question of the State providing for the education of women in the matter of homemaking and other domestic science.

W. F. COLLINS NAMED AGAIN

President Wilson has renominated Washington F. Collins to be postmaster at Millington This nomination was sent in originally at the last session of Congress. It failed of confirmation and therefore lost its status for the time being. In order to appear again on the Senate calendar the President was compelled to go through the formality of renominating him.

Mr. Collins' appointment was not then, and is not now, satisfactory to either Representative Covington or Senator John Walter Smith It was allowed to languish in the Senate committee for eight months because Mr. Collins had no friend in the Senate to work for his confirmation. It is still languishing there.

ROCK HALL NOTES.

Mr. B I. Ashley, having declined to serve as councilman in the vacancy caused by Mr. Shallcross' resignation, the Council at their meeting last Friday night elected Mr. T. L Rich who was also elected Mayor.

Capt. W. R. Coleman, who spent the summer with Mr. LeCompt has returned to Piney Neck and is making preparations for opening a feed store for the accommodation of the Neck. The Captain is also branching out as a "jiner." He is a Knight of Pythias, an Odd Fellow and on last evening he became a Red Man, being admitted to the Tribe in Piney Neck.

Mr. C. D. Kelley, a former resident of this place spent several days visiting among us the past week.

The recent heavy winds have shifted the bottom of our bayside water and completely covered a large portion of the best oysters on Swan Point and other bars.

Misses Amanda Porter, Mary Maslin and Nannie Ryan, three of our young lady sports, visited the City this week on business bent.

Mr. John Nickerson who has been up the county since last winter is now spending season among his friends here.

The mother of Messrs. B. and M. Kramer, of Rock Hall, died in Baltimore on Sunday last. Mr. and Mrs. Blaustein, of Rock Hall, attended the funeral in Baltimore.

Bad management, or soft coal or defective ventilation, was the cause of a disagreeable dose of smoke, gas and chillyness administered to the Sunday morning worshippers at the M. E. Church. The pastor, Rev. Mr. Prettyman, did his best to make all comfortable. He advised that overcoats, wraps and hats be worn. The discomfort, however, was in large measure minimized by the pastor (who seemed to have obtained a double portion at the Throne of Grace) in the delivery of a warm sermon on the subject: "The Way to all the blessings of Grace on earth, and to all the glories of the upper and better world."
