The Governor has appointed 10 extra game wardens, among them being Tilden Baxter, of Queen Anne's. At a meeting of 110 sportsmen of Alleghany last week a bill was suggested to assess a non-resident hunter $10. A resident hunter is to pay $1, but owners of farm lands may hunt on their own lands without license. The license money collected is to be used by the State Game Warden for game protection. Hunting on Sunday and election day is prohibited. It is also proposed to prevent dogs from running loose during June, July and August. It also provides for a paid deputy game warden for each county at $600 annual salary and $200 for expenses. A deputy game warden to live in Baltimore city is also provided at a salary of $800. The closed season for all game is fixed from January 1 to October 31, and the sale of all game in Maryland is prohibited.
