Typhoid Fever

How to Prevent Its Spread

ISSUED BY THE

State Board of Health

OF MARYLAND.

When TYPHOID FEVER appears in a family the source of the infection must be looked for in drinking water or food taken within the preceding twenty days. The patient may not have been infected at home, but if a second case occurs this second infection will in all probability be traceable to the first patient. In a majority of instances the drinking water has become infected. Your first business, therefore, is to find out the quality of your drinking water.

You can do this by asking your local health officer for instruction about shipping us samples of your drinking water. The daily supply of drinking water should be boiled.

The infectious material of typhoid fever is produced in but one way. It grows always in the bowels and sometimes in the bladder. It, therefore, escapes from the sick person in the stools and urine. If we kill the germs in the stools and urine as soon as they are passed, there can be no spread of typhoid fever. These discharges should, therefore, be disinfected as soon as possible. You will need a large quantity of a good disinfecting solution.

RECIPT FOR A GOOD DISINFECTANT.

To four gallons of water add enough salt to make a strong brine. Put this in a five-gallon demijohn or jug and add a quart of crude carbolic acid. Shake it up well and you will have a good disinfectant for stools and urine.

The crude carbolic acid, known as U. S. P. 90 per cent., is very good, and a quart will cost about 50 cents. There is a cheaper grade, known as a 36 per cent. acid, which is nearly as effective.

About a pint of this solution should be put in the chamber or bed pan before it is used, so that the discharges will begin to be disinfected as soon as they leave the body. There must always be at least as much of the disinfecting solution as there is of the discharges, so that more of the disinfecting solution may need to be added after the discharges are passed. If the stools are thin and watery, their disinfection will be accomplished in half an hour or so; but if the stools are thick or formed very much more time will be required. On that account it is best to have a covered jar or bucket into which the bed pan can be emptied, and to empty this jar only once in 24 hours. If the discharges cannot be finally thrown into a sewer, they should be buried in the soil at a convenient spot where there is no chance of their fouling a water supply. The discharges should never be thrown upon the surface of the ground, for you will hardly be successful in killing all the typhoid bacilli, and you must not place them where those not killed by the acid may be blown about in the dust or carried away by flies to infect other people.

In spite of every precaution those who wait on the sick person will get their hands infected, and it is therefore necessary to wash the hands every time one does any service about the patient's bed or body. Whoever waits on the patient must not prepare food ar drink for other persons in the house, or if it is impossible to mind this rule, one must most carefully and thoroughly cleanse the hands before performing any household duty outside the sick room. Good scrubbing with soap, water and a brush, and then rinsing well in fresh water, will suffice for cleansing the hands.

If anyone else in the house falls sick within two weeks after the first patient, the probability is that the infection was lodged before the precautions were taken in regard to drinking water and the disposal of discharges. But if the second case occurs more than 20 days after the first case, that will signify that we have made a mistake somewhere in our precautions.

DR. GEORGE H. JONES,
Secretary Local Board of Health of Kent county, Galena, Md. ag15-tf

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of my dear friend, MARY M. BECK, who departed this life one year ago to-day, August 12, 1913, aged 18.

As the night dew that falls,
Though in silence it weeps,
Shall brighten with verdure
The grave where she sleeps.

So the tears that we shed
Though in silence they roll,
We shall long keep her memory
Fresh in our soul.

No cross, no crown, they tell me,
But the cross is hard to bear;
I miss you more each day I live,
At home and everywhere.

FRIEND REBA ASHLEY.

In sad but loving remembrance of our dear father and husband, GEORGE W. DAVIS, who died July 29, 1911, aged 66 years.

Farewell, dear husband, thou art at rest,
And shall forever be;
You could not stay on earth with us,
But we can come to thee.

LOVING WIFE ROSA DAVIS.

Think not, dear father, thou art forgotten,
For by us thou shalt never be;
As long as health and memory last,
Our thought will be of thee.

SON FRANK AND WIFE.

Oh, how sad is this day for us,
The day on which you died;
And ever will memory cling to thee,
Till we rest by thy side.

SON JAMES AND WIFE.

But we know that you are happy
In the mansions of the blest;
Where there is no pain or sorrow,
In your sweet, eternal rest.

SON GEORGE AND WIFE.

Oh, may we meet, dear father,
Where friends no more shall weep;
For those who die in Jesus
Their death is only sleep.

DAUGHTER BESSIE AND HUSBAND.

His smiling face we see no more,
His spirit is at rest;
He has gone to be with Jesus
In the land of the blest.

SON LAWRENCE AND WIFE.

We often sit and think of him
When we are all alone.
For memory is the only friend
That grief can call her own.

SON CARROLL AND WIFE.

We miss thy kind and willing hand,
Thy fond and earnest care;
Our home is dark without thee.
We miss thee everywhere.

SON CHARLIE AND WIFE.

In sad but loving remembrance of E. PEARL KENNARD, who departed this life three years ago, August 21st, 1911.

Although she is absent from us,
And three weary years have fled
Since we stood by her bed in sorrow,
And knew our darling was dead.

We love her to-day, yes, we love her—
Just as well as we did years ago;
And we miss her, oh, how sadly we miss her,
And our hearts are still aching so.

But one thought comes to us in our sadness,
She is free frem all sickness and pain;
And we trust when our journey is ended
We will meet our loved one again.

MOTHER.
