BELGIANS BLOW UP FORTS BEFORE SURRENDERING

CALLED STRONGEST FORTRESS IN WORLD—ANTWERP'S DEFENSES SHATTERED AND CITY IN DESOLATION

FALL OF CITY WILL GIVE GERMANS 125,000 MORE AVAILABLE TROOPS

London.—Antwerp has fallen, it was officially announced by the Staff in Berlin, according to a Central News despatch from Amsterdam. The Belgians blew up their forts before leaving.

That the gallantry of the Belgian army had not been of avail before the remorseless rain of death from the great German guns was first learned by a dispatch to the Morning Post, which submitted its information to the Press Bureau, which permitted its publication without confirmation.

Two-thirds of the inhabitants of the city are refugees in Holland, and hundreds of others have fled to other points. It is estimated that close to 350,000 refugees are without food and shelter. The last reports showed the city to be in flames at many points. The shipping of neutral nations and of the Allies was permitted to leave the harbor and then all German and Austrian shipping was destroyed. The wonderful cathedral of Antwerp has been damaged.

When their position no longer was tenable the Belgians destroyed guns and blew up fortifications, retiring to the field, with the intention of hacking their way through the Germans in an effort to reach the Allies' left or die in the attempt. The surrender of Antwerp to the Germans followed the heaviest bombardment in history. With their good supply almost gone, their water supply cut, the great oil tanks in flames from explosive shells, and the Germans pouring through a breach in the inner fortifications, there was nothing left for the army but give up the city to prevent the appalling loss of life growing greater and save the city from being completely razed.

The people are reported to have acted calmly when the Germans entered the city. A Dutch cruiser and several submarines are lying in the Scheldt watching the situation.

During the bombardment of Antwerp some shells exploded on the roof of the prison. The warders immediately liberated the prisoners. Enormous damage was done in the southern quarter of the city, the German shells spreading fire and death over a large area.

The shells set fire to more than fifty oil stands along the river, and the far-reaching glare from the great fire added to the panic among the people still remaining in the city.

Over a quarter of a million persons flocked through the roads into the open country in an effort to escape.

The loss of life in the city was appalling. The aristocratic suburb of Barchem has been burned. The southern quarter and Pepinere have suffered badly, as also has the quarter around the museum.

The siege of Antwerp, which culminated in its fall, began September 29, so that the Germans took just ten days to reduce the formidable fortifications which surrounded the temporary capital of the Belgians.

The Germans had, however, for a long time previous prepared the way for the attack on Antwerp by taking a number of towns in its vicinity.

The first direct attack on Antwerp was that against the forts at Waelhem and Wavre-St. Catharines. These were reduced in a couple of days by the aid of the big siege guns. Meanwhile the forts at Lierre and Koningshoykt had also been attacked and these and others of the outside lines of fortifications were taken.

The last days saw the fighting advance to the inner line of forts and along the Scheldt, principally at Schooneard, where severe fighting occurred for several days, but the superior artillery of the Germans forced the Belgians back until the fighting had reached practically to the suburbs of Antwerp.

Zeppelin bomb attacks did much damage and killed scores of people.

The Germans who took Antwerp consist of five army corps under command of Gen. Hans H. von Beseler, a veteran of the war of 1870, who was taken from his retirement to do the work of reducing Antwerp.

Gen. de Guise was in command of the Belgian defenders. King Albert aided them by his personal direction almost to the last.

The strategists admitted that when the fortress capitulated a German army of 125,000 men will be dispatched to the assistance of Gen. von Kluck and that their numbers will tell.

ALFALFA

The Profitable Hay Crop

Yields Four to Six Cuttings a Year of Easily Cured and Most Nutritious Hay Wonderful Increases in Yield Each Successive Year.

ALFALFA "GOLD" BRAND

"Its long, branching roots penetrate far down, push and crowd the earth this way and that, and thus constitute a gigantic subsoiler. These become an immense magazine of fertility. As soon as cut, they begin to decay and liberate the vast reservoir of fertilizing matter below the plow, to be drawn upon by other crops for years to come."

Alfalfa seed sown during August or September will yield four to six cuttings next season. Frequent cuttings thicken out the stalk and makes it stool out and grow off better.

Alfalfa ranks higher than Timothy in feeding value. In fact, it might be termed both corn and hay, as it is almost a complete food. Experiment stations place the feeding value of Alfalfa hay at $20 per ton, as against Timothy hay at $12 per ton. This, with the fact that Alfalfa will easily yield, on good land, 6 to 16 tons of splendid hay pear year, shows what a valuable crop it is. Lands in the Western States that are well set in Alfalfa sell readily at from $100 to $200 per acre. The acreage of Alfalfa is increasing very largely all over the Middle and Southern States; our farmers are fast beginning to realize what a valuable crop it is. Alfalfa will succeed and do well on any good loamy, well-drained soil, but the land must be well and thoroughly prepared for best results.

It should never be used for pasture; it is too valuable as a hay producer to risk injury from stock. A heavy application of lime is of decided benefit—2,000 to 5,000 pounds per acre. Alfalfa is usually sown broadcast at the rate of 20 to 30 pounds to the acre. Our Alfalfa seed is the highest grade, strong germinating seed of the best and cleanest quality possible to procure.

We offer American Dry Land Non-Irrigated Alfalfa Seed, Bolgiano's "Gold" Brand Fancy, 99.78 per cent. pure.

If you want the best field seeds of any kind, always insist on getting Bolgiano's "Gold" Brand Standard Clovers and Grasses, Cow Peas, Winter Vetch, Timothy Seed, Red Clover, Crimson Clover, Alsyke, Red Top or Herds Grass, Orchard Grass, Winter Oats, Tall Mead Oats Grass, Millet, Permanent Pasture Mixture, Dwarf Essex Rape, all varieties of Turnip Seed, including Cow Horn, Southern Seven Top, Yellow Globe, etc.; Cabbage, Kale, Spinach, Winter Radish. If your local merchant does not sell Bolgiano's Big Crop Seeds, drop us a postal and we will tell you where you can get them.
