Mrs. M. Florence Coursey, wife of Rev. Ralph T Coursey, of Baltimore, died suddenly Monday morning last, at Shenpard and Enoch Pratt Hospital, Baltimore, aged 54 years. The remains were brought to Centreville Tuesday evening.

According to a statement made by the hospital authorities, Mrs Coursey knotted a bandage around her throat, tied the other end to a gas bracket and threw herself on the floor. She was found dead by a nurse, who had seen her but a short time before, and she must have executed her purpose to end her life with considerable rapidity. The case was reported to a justice of the peace, who deemed an inquest unnecessary.

WOMAN IN BAD CONDITION

Restored To Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Montpelier, Vt. — "We have great faith in your remedies. I was very irregular and was tired and sleepy all the time, would have cold chills, and my hands and feet would bloat. My stomach bothered me, I had pain in my side and a bad headache most of the time. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me lots of good and I now feel fine. I am regular, my stomach is better and my pains have all left me. You can use my name if you like. I am proud of what your remedies have done for me." — Mrs. MARY GAUTHIER, 21 Ridge St., Montpelier, Vt.

An Honest Dependable Medicine

It must be admitted by every fair-minded, intelligent person, that a medicine could not live and grow in popularity for nearly forty years, and to-day hold a record for thousands upon thousands of actual cures, as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, without possessing great virtue and actual worth. Such medicines must be looked upon and termed both standard and dependable by every thinking person.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

WAVES EATING AWAY CHESAPEAKE ISLANDS.

Erosion Not So Rapid On Tilghman But Has almost Destroyed Sharp's Island.

Three islands of the Chesapeake Bay, one of them containing a prosperous little community, are disappearing under the waters of the bay, according to investigators of the Federal Geological Survey. The islands known as Tilghman, Sharp and James, are on the Eastern Shore of the bay around the mouth of the Choptank River.

Tilghman Island, the largest and most northerly of the islands, is more than 3½ miles long and has an acreage of more than 3 square miles, providing homes for many prosperous farmers and fishermen. At its north end are located the towns of Tilghman and Avalon, with a population several hundred persons.

During the fifty-three years from 1847 to 1900 the area of Tilghman Island decreased from 2,015 to 1,686 acres, a loss of 329 acres. The maximum encroachment of the sea has been on the southern cape. Black Walnut Point, which has receded a quarter of a mile.

James Island, the southern most of the islands, is next to Tilghman Island in size, being nearly 2 miles long and three-quarters of a mile wide, and having a present area of 490 acres It is now deserted except for a few families, but had at one time a much larger population as shown by the presence of 20 houses, a schoolhouse, and a church. In area the island decreased from 975 acres in 1848 to 555 acres in 1901.

Sharp Island is the smallest of the three. Less than a generation ago it was a summer resort and supported several families throughout the year. Now all the trees have disappeared save a half dozen, and the buildings have been washed away except a large hotel, which stands alone in the centre of the island. The site of an artesian well has been reached by the waves In 1848 the island contained 438 acres of land. In 1900 only 91 acres remained, and in 1910 only 53 If the present rate of erosion continues unabated, the island will be gone in fourteen years.
