SATURDAY, APRIL 15, 1916.

SENATOR LEE was in Kent yesterday on his annual visit looking for votes for an office. He is getting to be a chronic office seeker.

THE man who states that no one can be elected on the Democratic side except his choice discounts his claim to Democracy and weakens his favorite's cause. Give us a better reason Mr. Poe.

THE case against the School Commissioners is still pending. The Court has granted the plaintiffs another hearing next Monday. There is but one side to this case so that the teachers need not worry about their money. They are sure to win altho it may take a few weeks more before the Court gives a decision.

IT is with a feeling of sadness the NEWS records the temporary retirement of Dr. Walter R. Graham one of the most eloquent pulpit orators in the Maryland Annual Conference and a gentleman of rare scholarly ability. The church at Chestertown has been faithfully served by him at three different times and at his second coming the beautiful edifice was erected and paid for. He has many warm friends throughout the District but none more devoted than at this place. For 43 years he has preached Christ and Him Crucified and has done a glorious work. He is a man of indomitable energy and we are of the opinion that he will be in the work again soon. He will make his home in Baltimore carrying with him the love and esteem of not only his church people but of the citizens generally.

THE FARMERS' CANDIDATE

The Sun has decided to cast its voice in favor of the big monopolistic interests, the snobocracy and aristocracy, in the coming fight for the Senatorial honors, and leave out the man whom it formerly supported in all his campaigns, who represented everything that appealed to the plain people and the business men, and the one man who represented the State of Maryland in a real national manner in Congress within the last 25 years.

David J. Lewis, "Our Davy," represents every element to raise the ambition of the poorest young man ; a coalmine worker at 9 years of age, who rose only by the most open, strenuous and honorable methods to become the greatest Representative Maryland has had in Congress in the time mentioned. He is the real father of the parcel post and so thorough was his knowledge and study of the subject that he was given the unique honor, in his first term, of being given complete charge of the matter.

He is the Farmers' candidate and is backed by the Maryland State Grange. The State Master writes that the Maryland State Grange stands for policies of direct practical benefit to our farming people and for men, regardless of political faith, who have not only adopted these policies but have really effected their realization in a genuinely helpful and practical way. Such a man, I believe, Mr. Lewis has proven. We cannot as sensible men, mindful of our own best interests, afford to lose him.

THE REPUBLICAN FIGHT

The fight in the Republican ranks gives the Democrats a great deal of fun. It seems as if conditions have been reversed in Kent in that this time both candidates on the Republican ticket have plenty of money. As stated heretofore in the NEWS it looks like the France wing will have but little difficulty in winning.

This fight for the Republican Senatorial nomination is a hummer, and if all the stories about campaign are true, or half true, it would seem that any darky politician on the Eastern Shore who has a mortgage on his farm after May 1 will deserve to be classed among the worst of the dubs.

Both sides profess to have plenty of money; both sides seem to have plenty of money: both sides just now are spending a lot of money and each side insists that its money will last until no more is needed. What could be lovelier to the esteemed colored brother?

Rumors are in circulation that the fund at the command of the Goldsborough people is no less than $90,000; that it is the gift of the Du Ponts, of Delaware, and that it was in bank before Mr. Goldsborough began his active campaign. Of course, there may not be the slightest foundation for these rumors, but whether they lack a basis or not, they are believed by some of the shrewdest politicians in the State, among them some well-informed Democrats who have no interest one way or the other in the size or origin of the Goldsborough war chest.

THE validity of race segregation ordinances of Baltimore, Richmond, St. Louis and a score of other Southern cities is under fire in the Supreme Court of the United States. That tribunal has been asked to decide whether or not a city, under the Fifteenth Amendment to the Federal Constitution, has the right to pass laws prescribing districts within the municipal limits in which whites and the blacks may live.

STILL POND

Mrs. Wm. L. Ford and little daughter spent several days this past week in Baltimore, Md.

Mr. Benjamin Quimby, of Seaford, Del. is visiting his sister, Mrs. J. C. Bowers.

Miss Hope Hackett is visiting her sister, Mrs. Lester Coleman, Baltimore.

Mrs. Willis Hackett and daughter, Edna, spent the past week with her daughter, Mrs. Clarence Ford, near Kennedyville.

Mrs. Sallie Rasin has returned home after spending several weeks with her sister at Townsend.

A special meeting of the Ladies' Aid will be called at the parsonage Wednesday, April 19th, to make arrangements for a Sewing Circle. All members are urged to come out and hear our plans.

There will be a business meeting of the Epworth League immediately after prayer meeting Friday evening, April 21. A full attendance is required, as we have some important business, among which is the election of officers for the coming year.

Miss Lucille Parr spent the week-end with her friend, Miss Inez Russell, Chestertown.

A large company from Still Pond, Betterton and throughout Kent county gathered in the Still Pond Methodist Church Wednesday evening to welcome Rev. and Mrs. Ransom P. Nichols and family. The occasion marked the return of the minister for another year in Still Pond. All the organizations responded with words of greeting and Mr. Nichols made appropriate remarks. A program of music, readings and exercises was delightfully rendered. Refreshments of ice-cream and cake were served. Besides the guests of the evening, the pastor and his family and Mrs. Nichols' father, Mr. T. E. Brigham, representatives of the Betterton M. E. Church were also guests of honor.

OBITUARY

JAMES FREEMAN MERRICKEN WOODALL.

The news of the death of James Freeman Merricken Woodall, at his late residence in Georgetown, was a shock to the people of our county. While his health had been declining during the past two years, not many knew he was near the end of his life's journey.

Few men have ever lived in Kent county who were better or more favorably known, or who were more generally esteemed and loved. It was often said of him that all the friends of his youth and manhood were the friends of his old age, and those who knew him as the years passed on felt for him the same warm friendship and regard with which he inspired them as boys or men. His quiet, gentle manner—his kindly eye and benevolent face—betokened a heart that ever beat true for his fellow men.

In the family circle—and it was a wide and numerous one—his voice and counsel were always sought with affection and respect.

He was a devout and faithful member of the Presbyterian Church at Georgetown, and had been one of its elders, trustees and its treasurer for many years prior to his death. He will be sorely missed by that congregation, which looked up to him as its faithful friend, its leader and adviser.

In the business world no one in the past fifty years has been better nor more favorably known than James F. M. Woodall. Like the strong, sturdy oak of the forest, his influence was deeply rooted in and through the life of the thousands with whom he came in contact. He was a man of keen and sound judgment. It was he who helped amass, manage and save the enormous fortune left by the late Capt. Andrew Woodall, that rugged and indomitable character which so impressed itself for three-quarters of a century upon the business life of Kent and Cecil counties. In James F. M. Woodall Capt. Andrew Woodall reposed unbounded confidence, which in him he found was ever a thousand fold repaid. In Kent—in Cecil—it was difficult to separate the two. The life and heart of one were ever responsive to the desire and interest of the other. No one would more readily acknowledge the debt he owed his young kinsman than would Captain Woodall himself. As long as any man lives who knew the two they will in his memory be inseparably linked, and so their names and lives jointly will be passed on from father to son.

James F. M. Woodall was born July 20th, 1842, and died at three A. M. Friday morning, March 31st, 1916. His father was Freeman B. Woodall and his mother's maiden name was Sarah A. Mansfield. He married a distant cousin, Emily A. Woodall, the eldest daughter of Captain Andrew Woodall, who survives him ; they had two children Katharine F. Woodall and Bessie W., the widow of the late Woodland Hurtt. His two grandsons are James Freeman Hurtt and Julian Woodland Hurtt. His remains were interred in Georgetown cemetery, on Monday April 3, 1916.

Mr. Laurence Dugan, formerly of Kent, died at his home in Wilmington, 515 E. 10th street, on Sunday, aged 60. The funeral was held Wednesday. The deceased was a brother to Mr. Albert I. Dugan and was employed by the Pullman Palace Car Co.

The Cause.

A Philadelphia woman has long purchased fish from a certain market dealer of that city. One day, when the prices seemed much too high, the housewife complained; and her complain was met by the following rejoinder:

"Yessum, fish is high,—yessum! Ain't no doubt 'bout that! Fish is awful high! Yo' see, mum, fish is gettin' scarce on account of all these heah aquariums!"

Mary Had A Waterman's Ideal

Mary had a fountain pen,
'Twas neat and good and strong,
And everywhere that Mary went
She took the pen along.

"For oh!" she said, "without my pen
I don't know how I'd feel;
I'm sure I could not write at all
Without a 'Waterman's Ideal.'"

So every time she saw a pen
That leaked all out the top,
She stopped right then and did advise
"Buy a Waterman's at the Co-op."

Mary Had Not A Waterman's Ideal

Mary had a fountain pen,
'Twas neat and looked quite fair,
But every time she tried to write,
Dear Mary learned to swear.

But Marv's fellow heard her once;
It made his senses reel.
He smashed that so-called pen and bought
A "WATERMAN'S IDEAL."
