Mr. Edwin W. Spear, one of Millington's oldest and best-known citizens, died at his home on Cypress St. at 3.30 p. m. Sept. 5th. Mr. Spear has been a life-long resident of this village where he was born August 15, 1841. The public schools of Millington furnished him with a fair education as a basis upon which to rear the superstructure of a business life. When 21 years of age he enlisted in the Confederate Army, becoming a member of the First Maryland Cavalry under Colonel Brown and serving for three years until the close of the war. At the close of the war he returned to Millington where he engaged in farming until 1887. That year he rented his place and moved into the village. He became proprietor of the Millington Roller Mills in 1892, and carried on a successful business until he retired about ten years ago. As a member of the Democratic party he has been active in local politics; and, for two terms he was county tax collector. He was a prominent member of the Asbury M. E. Church, having been trustee, steward and class-leader since 1895 Two years ago Mr. Spear was severely burned by an oil stove. For a long time his recovery was doubtful. However, after receiving treatment at St. Agnes' hospital, Baltimore, for several months, he came home, but his general health was never quite the same.

Besides his wife, who was a Miss Lucy Hurtt before marriage, he leaves two sons, Mr. Lewin R. Spear, of Tallahasse, Fla., and Mr. Franklin L. Spear, of Baltimore, and three daughters, Mrs. F. E. Maddox, of Chestertown, and Misses Edna J. and Esther A. Spear at home. He also leaves one son, Mr. J. E. Spear, of near town, by a former marriage.

Quite an interesting gathering took place at the old Ryan home, near Grey's Inn, the past week, consisting of children, grand-children, sons and daughters in law, six different families being represented from Norfolk, Baltimore, upper Kent and Rock Hall. It was a joyous occasion. Nevertheless a void was keen that this old world can never fill. Such is life. We hope for a final gathering on the Eternal Shore where parting will be no more.

A severe electrical storm passed over this section on last Friday afternoon doing considerable damage. The lightning entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Elburn and completely tore up a bed, passed down through the floor and out the side of the house. Mrs. Elburn, who had been sitting in the room, had gone to the kitchen to attend her supper, when the bolt came passing just down the side of the wall, back of the couch on which she had been sitting. The top of the organ was torn off and other damage done to the extent of about $150. The home of Mr. Antoine was also struck by lightning tearing off the weather boarding, etc. This place is vacant as Mr. Antoine is now living in Baltimore.

NOT A WHALER, BUT A WHOPPER

It was midday on the bank of the Tred Avon. The Rev. W. L. White and Judge Lawrence H. Chaffinch, disciples of Izaak Walton, were upon one of those fishing trips which are their wont. Their only luck had been another fisherman's and the string of water denizens they divided had cost 40 cents. They were reclining upon the shore after a light luncheon, when the following dialogue occurred:

"I tell you Mr. White," said Judge Chaffinch, "I had a remarkable experience on day last week. I went fishing in Miles River. Something got hold of my line and pulled as never did mortal fish before. We had the boat anchored, but was momentarily in fear of the anchor's pulling out of the mud. For fully five minutes it waa a tug of war. Then my line broke and the fish escaped."

"That was a remarkable experience," returned the Rev. Mr. White, "but I had an even more remarkable one last week. I went fishing from Tilghman's Island and when we were off Sharp's Island something swallowed the hook. I played out all my line and when I saw that I was going to be pulled out of the boat I took a couple of turns around a cleat. We were fast anchored, but this fish was so strong he began to pull the boat. Three times did he pull that boat, dragging her anchor around the island, while I did all I could to retard his progress by backing water with the oars. Finally my line gave way. It snapped with a noise like a cannon shot and the fish flew backward clear over Sharp's Island and landed in the water on the other side."

"Gee, Mr. White," said Judge Chaffinch "that must have been a whale."

"No sir," replied the Rev. Mr. White, "that was no whale. We were using whales for bait."

Cacophonous cachinations, as Dr. Noble says.

For our literal friends we would say with all veracity that this story is not really the truth.
