THE STORE WITH A SMILE

No, the store itself does not smile, but everybody in it does.

We have here a Store Family of nearly 1400 contented, happy people. Contented, because they are receiving a fair compensation for their service — a compensation which they themselves regulate in proportion to their own effort and efficiency.

Happy, because they are fairly treated, and because their only concern is to see that every customer is given courteous, honest, helpful service.

It is a store which you will like to visit — not the cold, awe-inspiring business machine which many department stores are, but a human store — a store with a personality — an organization of nearly 1400 souls with but the single purpose of serving you well — and smilingly.

Compulsory School Attendance.

People have begun to see the real question is not whether the State has a right to interfere with the parent's control of his child The real question is whether a parent has a right to interfere with the child's own divine right to a chance in life through the unfolding of his God-given powers of mind and soul. When a parent is so heartless or so ignorant as to prevent such development and unfolding, the State, in the name of God and humanity, ought to step in. As William J. Bryan puts it: "If a father were to set out to cut off his boy's arm, maiming him for life the State would prevent it. Yet in denying his child an education the father is just as surely crippling him for life—and the State, therefore, has just as definite a right to intervene"—The Progressive Farmer.

"I DON'T SUFFER ANY MORE"

"Feel Like a New Person," says Mrs. Hamilton.

New Castle, Ind.—"From the time I was eleven years old until I was seventeen I suffered each month so I had to be in bed. I had headache, backache and such pains I would cramp double every month. I did not know what it was to be easy a minute. My health was all run down and the doctors did not do me any good. A neighbor told my mother about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I took it, and now I feel like a new person. I don't suffer any more and I am regular every month."—Mrs. HAZEL HAMILTON, 822 South 15th St.

When a remedy has lived for forty years, steadily growing in popularity and influence, and thousands upon thousands of women declare they owe their health to it, is it not reasonable to believe that it is an article of great merit?

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.
