Mr. Watson, like thousands of other merchants, is saving moremoney by using a VIM. He writes in part as follows:

"Gentlemen:—I formerly employed a number of horses and wagons but I am now making my deliveries with one VIM Truck. I should say it will easily do the work of two horse and wagon outfits, and costs about the same as one horse and wagon."
THOMAS WATSON, 324 N. 13th Street.

Mr. Watson is covering more territory, making more sales, developing more new business because he has a VIM.

He has a graceful, "classy" car that is advertising his business.

He has a sturdy, durable, economical car that stands hard work.

And besides he is saving real money. You can do the same.

SEASONABLE LIVE STOCK INTERESTS

Give Young Stock Attention During Cold Weather.

SHOULD BE CAREFULLY FED

Young Stock Must Continue Growth During Winter—Should Start Prime Condition in Spring.

College Park, Nov. 16.—At this season some farmers must be reminded of the fact that young stock demand careful attention during the months they are not on pasture. In this matter Dr. S. S. Buckley, Animal Industry Extension, State College of Agriculture, recommends the following treatment:

Seasonable Live Stock Interests.

After having turned out a selected lot of young stock last spring, grazed and fed them until now, when they represent a well-grown, well-conditioned and promising lot of youngsters, it is unwise and unprofitable to allow them to "go back" or "remain stationary" in growth during the fall and winter months.

All animals are better for having made steady and continuous growth from birth to maturity, and any degree of weight which is lost during this period represents a money loss.

Grow Or Stand Still.

The feeding of exclusively maintenance rations is justifiable under certain circumstances, but there is never justifiable excuse for feeding growing and developing animals a ration merely for maintenance. "Unto all things there is a season, etc." This is fundamentally true for live stock; all animals mature at more or less fixed ages whether or not they have had the advantages of feed and care. After maturity, no system of feeding can overcome the deficiencies of development. The most which can be hoped for is the production of fat on these stunted carcasses, even this is added at doubtful profit.

Take Stock Of Feed and Animals.

It is very important therefore for the farmer to take an accounting at this season of the year. He should make an estimate of the amount and character of the feed stored for the fall, winter and spring months, and the amount which he is prepared and willing to purchase. He should also estimate the quantity required to continue satisfactory and natural growth and development in his animals.

These estimates he should compare. If there is likely to be a shortage of food materials, the farmer should select the least desirable individuals for his purposes. These he should sell in the condition in which they came from the pasture. His most desirable animals can then receive closer individual attention, and be developed into high type specimens.

In this way the farmer makes a double selection—first from the very young animals when he turns them out and again after about six months development he has an opportunity to cull them over, if by chance he has become overstocked or if his crops have failed to come up to expectations.

Building The Body Framework.

The animal body grows and develops uniformly and naturally only when conditions are favorable. These conditions can be favorable only when the quality as well as the quantity of feed is proper. A food ration, to be proper, must be more or less perfectly "balanced;" that is to say, it should have all classes of food elements present in sufficient amounts, with none in excessive amounts, thereby guarding against feed waste.

Good Pasturage contains all food element in proper proportion; good Silage needs the addition of a strong Protein concentrate like Cottonseed Meal or Alfalfa; good Legume hays, with small amounts of grain and roots, silage or beet pulp furnish desirable and economical feed for growing animals.

Frequently, however, farmers compel their stock to subsist on Straw, Corn Fodder or Hay alone. These support life and serve as maintenance feeds, but for the purposes for which young stock require food, the building and growth of body framework and tissues, such feeds alone are neither satisfactory nor economical.

Checking Up.

The experienced and successful stockman "knows the game" and instinctively "keeps tab" on his animals from day to day. To those less experienced, or in fact "novices," it is necessary that they should "check up" periodically and determine how their industry is progressing. No better way can be found than that of "keeping records" for individuals or groups.

Begin Now.

Cull over the live stock and sell all that do not offer reasonable assurance for future profits. Make an estimate of feed on hand and stand ready to purchase any needed additions when the market is favorable. Make provision for proper shelter before severe weather sets in, bearing in mind that comfort and safety make for profits. Finally when everything appears to be in prime order for wintering the stock make the resolution that this particular lot of stock shall emerge from winter finer and better, and start in prime condition for the favorable conditions of spring.

The "What Shall It Be" Question?

May seem very perplexing while you think about it at home, but all the difficulty vanishes the minute you see our Furniture display.

It fairly bristles with suggestions.

The error you are most likely to make is to conclude that you cannot affort to give Furniture. The truth is that you cannot afford NOT TO.

Give Furniture and you give not only for this Xmas, but for years and years to come.

Give furniture, and it will stand in some home a constant reminder of you and a lasting tribute of your good judgment.

You don't have to spend a lot of money, either, if you don't want to, Why we have articles of usefulness, artistic in appearance, articles that make ideal gifts, yet that cost only a trifle. Let us show you how easy it is to pick out Xmas presents.

The old tunes for the old folks

While the old folks enjoy the latest popular music on the Victrola, they have a soft spot in their hearts for some of the old favorites.

And they can hear them too on the Victrola whenever they want, and enjoy them better than ever before—the old-time numbers take on a new charm when sung and played by the Victor group of talented artists.

Come in and hear your favorite music, and let us explain how you can easily secure a Victor or Victrola —$10 to $500.
