Why Telephone Employees Want to Give Good Service

"WHY is it," asked a telephone subscriber, "that telephone employees in general are so interested in their work and are so anxious to give good service to the public?"

The answer is: loyalty to the public, to the Company and to themselves. The telephone employees look upon their work as a public duty; they take pride in giving the best that is in them. They feel a sense of loyalty to the company because they are a part of the organization which constitutes the Company and because many of them have made telephone service their life work. Then, too, many of them are partners in the business.

More than 100,000 employees of the Bell System own telephone stock or are paying for it on the monthly payment plan, from their wages as earned. Many of these employees live in Maryland and help to give you telephone service. The par value of the stock owned or being paid for by these employees in Maryland amounts to $671,200.

Employees who have voluntarily invested their savings and earnings in the business in which they are engaged must have confidence in it and will do their utmost to make it a success.
