WOODROW WILSON

Woodrow Wilson, World War President, sleeps eternal peace.

The great human machine which he himself said on Friday had broken down, slowed to a stop at 11.25 o'clock Sunday morning.

His indomitable spirit slipped quietly into the Great Beyond, for which he was ready.

He is proclaimed far and wide, at home and abroad as "perhaps the greatest man America has produced." We join with the others in this opinion and re-echo the words of eulogy pronounced on all sides.

Woodrow Wilson always will be one of the most commanding figures of human history. Judged by accomplishments and achievements, taken in all he is perhaps the greatest man America yet has produced.

He was a rare combination—a ripe scholar, a Christian gentleman, a consumate leader, a superb statesman, a dauntless figure, a noble idealist, a lofty soul and a genuine lover of mankind.

He made a matchless contribution to his time in the fields of politics, economics and letters. He was the champion of peace, of human brotherhood and of the world order.

Out of his sacrifice and sufferings, borne with superb dignity and with sublime courage, the good he has sought to do for humanity will inevitably be realized.

His example and his work will influence the destiny of civilization for centuries to come."

Endorse Fire Company And Garbage System.

At a well attended meeting of the taxpayers of the town on Friday evening held in Firemen's Hall recommendations were adopted calling for the establishment of a modern garbage system and also for the appropriation of at least $1,000 annually for the maintenance of the Volunteer Fire Company. A committee from the fire company composed of William G. Smyth, Allan A. Harris, former Senator Wm. F. Russell and Charles L. Dodd appeared before the meeting with an itemized budget of expenses necessary to maintain the fire company, and their recommendation of an appropriation of $1,000 annually was adopted. Mayor Chas. N. Satterfield discussed at length the needs of the town as to improved streets, gutters and sewers. It was proposed to get an enabling act to add 5 cents to the tax rate for garbage and 6 cents for fire company making a total of 86 cents. There will likely be a referendum to the voters on these two questions.

The commissioners have not spent a cent on sidewalks for a year. They state that an ordinance requiring all side-walks to be built by property owners is being enforced. This is likely to cause considerable dissatisfaction unless some other plan is adopted. There are so many questions to be solved where the property owner is compelled to lay a pavement. Why should this be any more than that he should build the road in front of him?

HARRY C LUSBY,

d15-tf CHESTERTOWN, MD.

The News is enthusiastically back of Gov. Ritchie in his effort to cut the tax rate. The assessment throughout the State has been greatly increased and unless there is some relief the people will rise up and call a halt in other ways. There seems to be no end to increases in public expenditures while incomes remain stationary. Men in high places should give more attention to economical problems and less to extravagant propaganda. There is a time for all things and this seems to be an opportune occasion for the practice of economy in public affairs.

There were but few flags at half mast in Chestertown to the memory of the late President Wilson—Kent News, A. S. Turner & Sons, Chestertown Bank, town flag, Court House and one or two others.

The proposed regulations for milk and cream adopted by the Inter-State Milk Producers' Association have been supplied shippers. They require clean, well-ventilated stables; stalls roomy and facilities for feeding the animals in a cleanly manner; gutters of concrete; whitewashed buildings; milkers wear white, clean suits, cans cleaned and milk pails with covers; cows healthy, etc., etc. Dairymen will take pride in complying with these requirements especially if the market price will repay for the cost. These requirements are all for the health of those who use milk and the public should pay for a clean, healthy product.
