Your Old Corn Field Can Again Be Made to Produce Big Corn Crops
You can make fields that have been repeatedly cropped to corn again produce the old time yields. The remedy is not expensive and consumes no time. It is applied successfully and extensively under similar conditions in many sections.
Stop in our store the first chance you get and ask us about applying fertilizer at the same time the corn is planted. We can show you a corn planter which, besides dropping the desired number of kernels in each and every hill, is equipped with a fertilizer attachment that successfully distributes any standard fertilizer. It drops the fertilizer without any choking up or bridging of fertilizer in the hopper and it does not let the fertilizer come in contact with and fire the seed.
Don't overlook the "accurate planting" features of this planter—the instant variable drop. A kick of the foot and the drop can be changed to 2, 3 or 4 kernels per hill, as desired. A push of the foot lever and the planter changes instantly from hill dropping to drilling, or back to hill dropping, and you don't have to get off the seat nor touch the seed plates to make these changes.
Come in and see our John Deere No. 999 Corn Planter.
