THE TOMATO SITUATION

Tomato Growers Holding Firm—Packers Getting Uneasy — Many Offers Of 25 Cents Per Basket—30 Cents A Basket Should Mean Less Than 5-8 Of A Cent Per Can To Consumer.

Tomato growers, who joined the pool and especially Farm Bureau members will be pleased to know that the situation in the counties that pooled their tomatoes is well in hand.

Dorchester county is making sure progress towards a practically 30 cent average contract, while Queen Anne's and Kent with the exception of those localities which signed contracts prior to the formation of the pool are holding for practically the same price.

The Bureau officers in both counties have been busy during the week trailing up and proving to be false various rumors as to contracts and prices. The same old tactics of misrepresentation which have produced results in the past, have so far, failed.

Very few landlords are urging tenants to contract at any price realizing that the tenant farmer must get a profit this year or their farms will be vacant.

Why not be honest about this situation. We openly challenge the Tomato Packers of Kent, Queen Anne's and Baltimore City to meet representatives of the farmers and lay their cards on the table. We feel sure we can prove the farmer is getting very little of the 17 cents per can which No. 3 tomatoes are selling for and that a handsome profit is being divided between the packer, broker, wholesale and retail.

30 cents per basket should mean less than 5-8 cent per can extra to the consumer for No. 3 tomatoes.

We ask the county and daily papers to be represented at such a meeting, so that the public which is so vitally interested may know the true situation.

The Campaign to Save Washington College Is On.

Committees In All Parts Of The Eastern Shore Making A Drive For $250,000 Endowment Fund—Money To Be Raised In Other Sections—The Drive In Kent For $25,000 Opens—Hustling Teams Vie To Win.

The opening gun in the campaign to raise a $250,000 endowment fund for Washington College was fired at Reid Hall Thursday evening, Allan A. Harris, Chairman for Kent County, presiding. A splendid supper prepared by that expert chef, Mr. Gunning, put everyone in good spirits so that the affair was a great success in every way. The speakers in their order were Dr. Titsworth, Mr. Heck, Mr. Williams, Rev. N. O. Gibson, Judge Ltwin W. Wickes and Mr. Kepler, of Cecil.

The quota for Kent, which is expected to take the lead in the drive, is $25,000. The campaign is on and every citizen is asked to help in the laudable undertafing. The great asset which the College is to this town and county is beyond computation. Its value to the business of the town, its value to the education of our youth, its value to the physical upbuilding of our children and to the culture and spiritual upbuilding of the community is inestimable. The plan is to make the college self sustaining and in this purpose all are agreed it will be a fine accomplishment.

It is now the purpose of the State to withdraw much of its support from Washington College, as well as other institutions, in the future.

A commission recommends that the citizen constituency of these institutions, who are the special benefactors of the service they render, should do in Maryland what has been done in other states for small colleges, namely, build up a permanent endowment fund. The State will appropriate $100,000 towards such a fund upon condition that friends of the college raise an additional $200,000. The student body under the leadership of Mr. Heck have pledged $10,300, a fine start.

Washington College has in recent years shown remarkable vigor and growth, the attendance increasing fifty per cent, in three years, during which time the college department enrollment doubled. Not having a permanent endowment, however, the college is below standard and its graduates are at a disadvantage. The purpose of the endowment is to meet all the requirements of the standardizing agencies, so that boys and girls graduating from Washington College will be on a par with those elsewhere. In Ohio, a group of small colleges taken at random, show an average endowment of nearly $1,000,000 each. Subscribers to the fund will be given five years in which to make payments of their pledges.

Two Additional County District Committees Completed.

The Betterton District Committee of the Washington College Endowment Campaign is made up of the following members: Howard Turner, Chairman; Arthur H. Brice, Mrs. J. A. Brice, Jesse B. Coleman, Charles H. Brice, Mrs. T. Bayard Crew.

The Fairlee Committee is composed of the following: H. C. Willis, Chairman; A. Earl Nicholson, H. S. Startt, Frank Wheatley.

The entire county organization is completed. The workers throughout the county will come together for three different reports. They will meet for supper at 6.30 on Tuesday evening, April 1st, Thursday evening, April 3rd, and the final report meeting on Tuesday evening, April 8th. Supper will be served the members of the committee in Reid Hall, Washington College.

The committee in charge of the campaign again wish to inform the friends of the college that every dollar contributed will remain intact, as the entire cost of the campaign has been contributed.

DUCKS FILLED WITH POISON

The News published last week the destruction of ducks and swan by polution of the Susquehanna flats. It is due to the dumping of chemicals from the Aberdeen Proving Grounds and Edgewood Arsenal into the waters of the bay. It is feared that if a stop is not put to the practice, the shad industry now about to begin will be destroyed and fishing generally greatly injured. This has been reported to Congressman Goldsborough. To prove the deadliness of the poison a Kent countian opened one of the ducks and a cat was killed from eating the poisoned fowls. It is hoped that no hogs on the bay shore get hold of any of them as the poison is certainly deadly.
