Kent News

SATURDAY, MAY 17, 1924

The sports on Tuesday was a grand success as conducted under Dr. Burdick and his assistants. The need of police supervision was in evidence and it is hoped that for the events of today and next year there may be improvement along this line.

John Stuart Mill in his book "on Liberty" quotes from the Koran a maximum which reads: "A ruler who appoints any man to an office when there is in his dominions another man better qualified for it sins against God and against the State." My, my, what sins some Governors will have to answer for!

The New York Times is in favor of Hon. John W. Davis as the Democratic nominee for President. It says, "He is a man whose career and public service are his chief and sufficient credentials. It would be a great thing to have a man of his repute and character placed in the Presidency. To place his name before the Democratic Convention would be like raising a standard to which the best in his party would be glad to repair." In a whole column the Times speaks of the special fitness of Mr. Davis.

URGES PUBLIC TO BUY COAL

Secreary Hoover today appealed to the Nation's coal consumers to prevent a coal shortage by laying in coal supplies during the summer.

He urged industries to purchase their stocks during the slack coal season to prevent congestion on the railroads during the fall, which, he said, would tend to increase the coal prices and create a shortage.

The appeal was made in a letter to the secretary of the national and State trade associations in the United States.

The local dealers in Chestertown and other parts of Kent also urge the public to lay in their coal now.
