TELEPHONE EMPLOYES NUMBER OVER 350,000

Increase In Single Year Large Enough To Constitute City Like Miami, Fla.

There are more people employed in the telephone industry in the United States than the entire populations of Wyoming and Nevada combined—more than all the inhabitants of either Arizona or Delaware, as shown by the latest census.

Over 350,000 persons are now engaged in the telephone business in this country, and this total does not include the many thousands of other workers who are employed in the manufacture of telephone apparatus and equipment.

During the past year the number of telephone employees increased by over 30,000, or in other words the telephone industry afforded employment to enough new workers to populate a city the size of Miami, Fla. This increase was largely made up of additions to the plant and traffic forces of the telephone companies throughout the country. It reflects the strenuous efforts that are required to erect, operate and maintain the additional plant and equipment required to meet the continually increasing demands for service.

CRIMINALS IDENTIFIED BY TELEPHONIC PHOTOS

Chicago.—Criminology is pushing ahead with huge strides these days.

A man was arrested in New York recently. A telephoto of his finger print was telephoned to Chicago. It was compared with records here and the man was identified as a pickpocket.

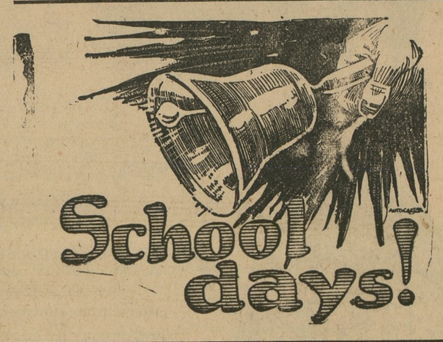

It took just two minutes to send the picture from New York to Chicago and get an answer by the new telephone-photo success of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

Twenty years ago there were 1,563,941 Bell-owned telephones in this country. Now there are 10,406,155, the gain during 1923 being more than one-half the total number of Bell telephones in service at the beginning of 1904.

A telephone message travels across the continent in one-fiftieth of a second.

Kansas has 50,000 more telephones than the whole of South America.
