CHURCH NOTES

The evangelistic services at Christ M. P. Church closed Sunday evening. Rev. N. O. Gibson preached each evening excepting one when Rev. T. J. Sard, of the M. E. Church, preached an impressive discourse. The sermons by the pastor were especially strong and delivered with feeling and power. Rev. Guy C. Harris, singing evangelist, was a great help in the meetings. His singing was enjoyed by all while his christian character impressed everyone with whom he came into contact. A fifteen minute season of prayer was one of the most helpful features of the meetings. No one can estimate the great good done by the extra meetings.

In these days of unbelief and pleasure seeking, the old fashioned Sunday School is still making good. A day or two ago Honorable Emory L. Coblentz stated in the Talbot County Convention that he had asked the Wardens to make a report concerning the thousand inmates of the Penitentiary and 700 in the House of Correction. It was found that only six were Sunday School people when committed.

The State Convention will be held in the Lutheran Church at Westminster beginning at 9 a. m. Thursday, November 6th, and continuing until 4 p. m. Friday the 7th. An interesting feature will be the reports of the staff. 51 District Organizations have been trained in the young people's work in all-day institutions. 3120 young people themselves have also been trained in all conferences. 1189 net gain in teacher-training is shown, while 5310 adults have been added to the Seven counties now have over 40 per cent of white people in the Sunday Schools, Somerset having gone over the 50 per cent mark. MILLINGTON ITEMS

Millington Community Fire Company was called last Sunday morning about 7.30 to assist in extinguishing a fire, which destroyed the stables, sheds and barn on the Capt. James Woodall farm, tenanted by James Davis. A call was first sent to the Chestertown Fire Department, but being unable to locate the chief, no apparatus was sent, but a few firemen did respond with fire buckets. Middletown was next called, but with only 750 feet of hose, could not reach the creek. Then Millington was called, so, when the Millington apparatus arrived the fire was well under way and got beyond all hope of saving the buildings. Our boys laid out 1650 ft. of hose to the creek and soon had water playing on the fire. Water was lifted 35 to 40 feet from the creek to the nozzle, where about 90 pounds pressure was maintained, power sufficient to displace the large stones in the foundations and move the heavy sills resting on them. They threw so much water on the ruins that they had to move the section pipe farther out into the creek three times to keep the pipe below the water. All those present were well pleased with the performance of the Millington apparatus and some so well pleased that they were attracted back to the scene the second time after going home. We sure have some fire engine and the boys who can use it.

GALENA ITEMS

Fire early Sunday morning destroyed the stables, cow sheds and barn on the farm belonging to Capt. J. E. Woodall and tenanted by Jas. Davis. The fire was discovered during milking time when all of the cows were chained up in the stable. It started in the hay and spread very fast, Mr. and Mrs. Davis and the children succeeded in getting out all of the stock but one cow. A lot of hay, all of the harness and numerous other things were burned. Neighbors rendered valuable assistance and the fire companies from Middletown and Millington were soon on the spot to help save the other buildings. When the water in the tank gave out the two engines put their hose together and pumped up water from the creek.

One of the most outstanding statements made by Mr. Cooper was to the effect that the thoughtful leaders of labor and the thoughtful leaders of capital were coming to realize and believe that there is a growing acceptance of christianity as a basis for the settlement of economic disputes. He interpreted his own personal experience as supporting this point of view.

COLLEGE NOTES

A very interesting program was given by the members of the Mount Vernon Literary Society on last Wednesday evening. The program consisted of a debate, clarinet solo, several impromtu speeches and a piano solo. The question debated was "Resolved, That Co-education Is Beneficial to Washington College," The affirmative side defended by Miss Crane and Earl Cullen gained the decision over Miss Touchton and Michael F. McAuliffe, who upheld the negative. The judges were Miss Margaret Crew, James Von Breson and J. Newell Chandler.

W. Frazier Russell, Jr., an old member of the Mount Vernon will speak at the next meeting of that society, scheduled for next Wednesday evening. Mr. Russell has spoken at several former meetings of the society in the past and has always proven to be an interesting talker.

The football team will face Albright College at Myerstown, Pa., this afternoon. Albright has a heavy team and Washington will have plenty of opposition to overcome. However, with "Jake" Reiger in shape and the backfield rounded out by the addition of Galvin, a victory should be assured. This will be the first game between the two institutions in some years. The result is awaited with much interest by the townspeople.

The Official ballot to be voted at the election in November appears in the advertising columns of the Kent News today. It is noteworthy because of its restricted size, the result of the "shorter ballot" legislation of the last General Assembly.

There are four parties represented on it: Democratic, Republican, Progressive and Labor and two congressional candidates. Two constitutional amendments appear on it.

Compared with the ballot of four years ago it is a pigmy. There are no blank lines under each group of candidates and the constitutional amendments appear at the bottom of the ballot instead of in a separate column on the right hand side. This alone makes the sheet much narrower and makes it easier to handle in the voting booth.

Its Best Form.

There is more real charity in getting one man a job than in feeding four in idleness.—Boston Transcript.
