HUNDREDS OF FARMERS ENTITLED TO REBATE OF TAX ON GASOLINE.
Kent County farmers, watermen, manufacturers and canning house operators who use gasoline for power in other than vehicles that travel on the public highways, are entitled to a rebate of State tax upon all fuel purchased, according to an announcement made this week by Chairman John N. Mackall, of the State Roads Commission, and endorsed by State Comptroller Wm. S. Gordy, Jr.
Those who buy gasoline for power purposes may obtain a rebate of the tax by forwarding vouchers to the State Comptroller's Office.
Hundreds of Kent county farmers are believed to be paying the tax without question, when they are actually entitled to the rebate on thousands of gallons purchased each month.

The DAIRY
DAIRY BULL NEEDS EXTRA GOOD CARE

A little special care should be used in the feeding and general management of the dairy herd sire, in order to maintain his stamina and potency to the fullest degree. In the case of the mature bull this necessitates keeping him in first-class condition as to flesh, but not overfat. Either fatness or thinness in flesh works against the maintenance of his best breeding condition and one is to be avoided as much as the other.

There should be an abundance of roughage in the dairy bull's ration. Clover hay and alfalfa are especially good; he may safely have all of either of these forages that he will consume. Corn stover and oats straw also are good feeds for the bull, though lower in nutritive values than the leguminous hays.

One of the main special requirements of the grain ration is that it be not too abundant; it is better to depend upon the forages for maintaining the animal's weight as much as possible. Many good dairymen give the herd sire the same grain ration as the cows receive, except less of it. The bull's grain needs will vary a great deal according to his size and physical condition, of course, though if he is getting plenty of good hay in addition, especially if it is clover or alfalfa, he will not need more than from four to eight pounds of grain daily. Shorts, bran and oats are particularly good concentrates to use in the grain portion of the bull's ration.

Here is a ration for mature bulls which has the sanction of usage on many farms: three parts each of cornmeal, ground oats and wheat bran, and one part linseed meal. If desired, hominy may be substituted for the cornmeal.

Whether the herd sire should receive silage is a disputed point among dairymen. Many believe that it impairs the breeding abilities of the bull, though experimental evidence to support this belief is lacking. Other farmers, however, feed silage to their herd bulls, though much less of it than the cows receive. Large feeding of silage to bulls results in greatly distending their paunches.

Until he reaches serviceable age there is no better feed for the young bull than grass, and he should be allowed to make as much of his growth on it as possible. On this feed he will build up the right kind of flesh, and along with it will develop vigor and constitution as a world in no other way. Whatever the ration of the young bull, it should contain much protein to supply the needs of his rapidly growing body.

While careful attention needs to be given the bull's ration, proper feeding alone will not maintain the most desirable physical condition. Regular exercise is quite as important in preserving his vigor and potency.

Encouraging Favorable Market for Veal Calves

Here is something dairymen should encourage as a means of making a more favorable market for their veal calves: Meat experts of the federal government say that the practice of skinning veal without removing the hide or skin has many advantages. They explain that veal which does not have the skin removed until it reaches the retailer, which may be from five to ten days or longer after slaughter, still retains its "blueness" and the light pink color most desired by customers. The protective covering supplied by nature keeps the flesh from turning dark. Packers in New York and Chicago are now generally following the practice of selling veal with the skin on. This could be practiced to advantage, locally where veal calves are killed for meat on the farm or in small towns.

Kentucky Farmers Make Improvement in Dairies

Since April some 20 purebred dairy sires, ranging from 500-pound records to gold-medal classification, have been brought into Graves county, Kentucky as a result of the cooperative efforts of the Mayfield chamber of commerce and agricultural extension workers, according to reports to the United States Department of Agriculture. Several herds of cows with good records have also been purchased by Graves county farmers. Lime-storage sheds, built at shipping points in the county, have enabled farmers to purchase and haul lime at convenient times for the benefit of their leguminous crops, pastures are being improved, and feed crops increased as a part of the county's program for economical and efficient dairy production.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION
John Thomas Richardson vs. Lillie Lindsay Richardson
In the Circuit Court for Kent County, In Equity, No. 2381.
The object of the Bill filed in the above entitled case is to procure a Decree for divorce a vinculo matrimonii for the plaintiff, a resident of Kent County, Maryland, of the defendant, a non-resident of the State of Maryland.
The Bill states:
1. That on the 3rd day of November 1902, he, John Thomas Richardson, was married to his wife, Lillie Lindsay Richardson, with whom he resided in Kent County, State of Maryland, until sometime in the year 1904.
2. That though the conduct of your Orator towards his wife, the said Lillie Lindsay Richardson has been kind, affectionate and above reproach, the said Lillie Lindsay Richardson, has without just cause or reason, abandoned him, and has declared her intention to live with him no longer, and that such abandonment has continued uninterruptedly for at least twenty years, and is deliberate and final, and the separation of the parties beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation.
3. That your Orator and the said defendant, Lillie Lindsay Richardson, had no children born to them from the said marriage.
4. That the defendant, the said Lillian Lindsay Richardson, is a non-resident of the State of Maryland, whose whereabouts is unknown to your Orator.
5. That your Orator is a resident of Kent County, State of Maryland, where he has lived all his life.
It is thereupon this 3rd day of March A. D. 1925, ordered by the Circuit Court for Kent County in Equity, that the Plaintiff, by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in said Kent County, once in each of four successive weeks before the 6th day of April next, giving notice to the said Lillie Lindsay Richardson, non-resident defendant, warning her to appear in this Court in person, or by Solicitor, on or before the 20th day of April next, to show cause, if any she has, why a decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

AILMENTS OF YOUNG GIRLS
Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound School Teacher's Experience
Evanston, Wyoming.—"A few years ago I had troubles every month such as girls often have, and would suffer awfully every time. I was teaching school and it made it hard for me as I had to go to bed for two or three days. One day my mother suggested that I take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which I did, and it did wonders for me. After my first baby was born I got up too soon and it caused a displacement. This troubled me so that I could hardly walk or do my housework. I knew what the Vegetable Compound did for me before so I took it again. It strengthened me and now I have five little kiddies. The eldest is six, the baby is five months old and I have twin boys three years old and a boy of five years. I do all my own housework, washing and ironing, and I never feel better in my life. I owe my health to your wonderful medicine and I recommend it to all my friends."

A YOUNG couple were preparing for the thrill of their first experience at having house guests.
A middle-aged couple had a boy about to come home with a classmate for a holiday during his first year at college.
An elderly couple were making ready with great glee for the visit of their married daughter with the first grandchild.
Strangely enough, they all had need of the same article—a Davenport Bed—and they all came to us because they know that we are prepared not only with the article they want, but with the kind of service that lends added cheerfulness to the occasion.
Indeed, there is much more to the conduct of a good furniture store than the mere selling of furniture. There is the joy of being genuinely helpful in making the home all that it should be.
