Faulkner Held Without Bail in Arson Case

With tears in her eyes but grimly determined to conquer the tremble in her voice, Mrs. Ruth Faulkner, pretty wife of Kenneth G. Faulkner, Friday affirmed her belief in the innocence of her husband, charged arson of two buildings at Druid Hill and North avenues early yesterday morning. She said:

"I don't see how you can believe he did it. I know he is not guilty." In their third floor apartment at 1823 North Charles street, Mrs. Faulkner and her thirteen-year-old son, Kenneth, Jr., awaited the arrival of the accused man's father coming from out of town to aid his son. The elder Faulkner arrived early in the evening but planned no action until Saturday.

Faulkner was arraigned before Magistrate Jacob Schroeder in Northern Police Court Friday and was held without bail in the Baltimore City Jail pending police investigation.

He flatly denied the charges against him and told the magistrate he was on his way from the theatre in which he is organist to board a street car and go home when the fire broke out. He was arrested on complaint of Frederick Brandt, 1214 West North avenue, who said Faulkner had been acting suspiciously in the neighborhood just before the fire broke out at 2301 Druid Hill avenue and 1215 West North avenue.

Faulkner admitted at the hearing he had attended 47 fires during the last year. He was identified by Patrolman Davis of the Northern district as the man who several months ago told him there was a fire at 2501 Madison avenue. A baby carriage was afire on the front porch, the officer said. Police said there were two small fires last winter at the Metropolitan Theatre, where Faulkner works.

Capt. William J. Lamb testified when he reached the Druid Hill avenue house after the fire broke out early Friday he found the entire stairway in flames. But for prompt arrival of the firemen, he said, the nine occupants might have perished as their means of escape was cut off. Capt. Frank R. Gutch, Northern district, is continuing his investigation of several fires concerning which Faulkner is being questioned. The accused man, thirty-eight, has

Buy Tubes as Carefully as you buy Tires

THERE are two ways a car owner can buy tubes. He can go out looking for price—and get it. Or he can buy tubes that will give his casings a chance to deliver the mileage that is built into them. U. S. Royal and Grey Tubes are built to give mileage and get mileage. They resist heat, hold their shape and retain their elasticity. To get all the mileage out of a new casing or to make an old casing last—put a U. S. Royal or Grey Tube inside it.

TRAINING FOR SERVICE

KEEPING pace with America's telephone needs means keeping ahead. The work of preparation never ends. There must be complex engineering studies, careful financing plans, and thousands of manufacturing operations before new facilities can be built and made ready for public use. And when you are ready, the workers must also be ready, skilled in the multitude of tasks incident to the operation and maintenance of telephone plant and equipment. In every important center in the country, new members of the telephone forces are in continuous training, preparing to meet tomorrow's telephone needs. For your telephone system is a living, growing organism. Last year 836,163 telephones were added to its national service. Millions of miles of wire interlace the continent, to interconnect your telephone with nearly 16,000,000 others. Tomorrow there will be more telephones, for the nation demands and expects them.
