We often hear the statement that Catholics stick together. A large number of people think that Catholics never make peace with the Pope...

SOME NUISANCES

The ladies of Chestertown especially those busy with the household cares, are loud in their complaints against canvassers at this time of the year.

Magazine solicitors are the most numerous. These are young men, if their story is to be believed, seeking means with which to furnish them with a college education.

The lady stated that only a few days ago one of these salesmen got very impudent because she refused to subscribe for a certain periodical.

Then again the church societies have taken up the work of soliciting for some of the periodicals. Committees are working the town from door to door, and if you refuse them they say you are not in sympathy with the church.

It is said the magazines offer such flattering inducements to solicitors that good money is made by those who work. All kinds of inducements are held out to prospective readers in the town and county.

BACK TO THE FARMS

Under the auspices of the New York branch of the National Farm School, a dinner will be given at the Hotel Astor, Ostor, October 20, at which it is hoped $600 will be raised at each of the 120 tables, or a total of $72,000 which will be used to send 120 boys to the Farm School for a three years' course. Other cities will follow New York's lead.

It is evident that more serious attention is being given every year to the training of young men for scientific farm work. Certain schools and colleges have devoted much attention to the subject; but this is not enough. If the world's foodstuff supply is to be maintained at a state level there must be a more pronounced back-to-the farm movement.

One of the main problems confronting the American farmer today, in addition to the high cost of things he buys and the uncertain prices he receives for the things he sells, is labor. The exodus of young men from the farms to the big cities and industrial centers, in certain sections of the Middle West, the East and the South almost has depleted the farms of help. When we stop to consider that the very life of man depends on his foodstuff that comes from farms, it is clear that something must be done not only to maintain a sufficient supply for present-day needs, but to lay the foundation for the increasing demands of the future.

Meanwhile the farms must be made attractive for American youth; and they must be given an opportunity to realize upon the years of labor and study that they give to training for agricultural pursuits. In time, it is not unreasonable to hope that the agricultural situation by such policies will have been lifted out of its existing precarious condition.

One of the things that might be done for the farmer is to relieve him from some of the taxes now levied. For instance if his personality was relieved of assessment. Why should certain bonds be sold free of taxation when the things the farmer uses to produce the necessities of life are made to pay. There is something radically wrong and now is the time for thoughtful men to confer and work out a more equitable adjustment of burdens.

Agriculture is, after all, the real backbone of the nation. When the farmer prospers and is happy, the automobile manufacturers, the bankers and doctors and everybody are helped.

DAIRY FACTS

AUTUMN AND WINTER BEST FOR DAIRYING

A study of the prices paid for creamery butter over a period of 13 years shows that invariably the price for butter is higher in the larger markets of the United States in the fall and winter and lowest during the spring and summer months. Therefore, a farmer who breeds his cows to freshen in the fall will produce more from the volume of cream produced than he would get from the same volume in the spring, points out J. P. LaMaster, chief of the dairy division of Clemson college.

The fall calf is also cheaper to raise because it is fed milk, grain, and hay during the winter months, and by spring is old enough to get a considerable amount of its feed requirements from pastures; while spring-born calves must be fed milk and grain during the summer, then grain, hay and silage the following winter, thus making the spring-born calf cost considerably more at one year of age than a calf born in the fall. Furthermore, the farmer has the more time to devote to the care of the calves in fall and winter than in the spring and summer season, when crops require most of his attention. This same thing applies to mature cows in that they are giving their greatest flow of milk during the winter months and are during the slack winter months and are dry or nearly so during the dry, hot, busy season.

The cow that freshens in the fall is fed dry feeds during her heaviest production when the product sells at the highest price, and therefore yields a greater return on the feed consumed. This production comes at a period of the year when it is easier to deliver a cream of good quality because of cool weather conditions and lack of flies and dust. On the other hand, the cow that calves in the spring produces her heaviest yield during the busy summer when hot weather and flies make it difficult to deliver a high quality product to the creamery and when the price is lowest. The spring-freshened cow does not improve in her milk flow during the fall and winter months, but usually goes down in milk during the hot summer months, thus making it difficult for her to return a profit on dry feeds. She will also be dry in late winter months and must be fed on dry feeds when she is not returning an income.

When spring comes new pastures help boost the milk flow of the cow which freshens in the fall, and thus she will finish her lactation period with high production. In spring the price begins to fall off, but the cow is on pasture. She is then dry during the hot season when butterfat sells at the lowest price and when farmers are busy with their field crops.

happy with him. When he falls, his adversity stretches out into every business and every profession and snatches away a part of the prosperity that otherwise would be enjoyed.

Kent county has been receiving some publicity the past ten days that rivals the Tennessee Scopes case, and flaming items that had but little City reporters have sent exaggerated truth in them. If the news contained in city dailies have no more foundation than has been evidenced in this Strange case then the public may reasonably question the veracity of same. It has been an unfortunate proceeding from start to finish.

SWIMMING CONTEST AT BETTERTON

The weekly swimming meets at the Betterton Beach continue to attract much interest especially the one held on Thursday afternoon. Margaret Crew and Edwin Williams continue to star and remain as high point winners with 98 points each. For the girls the work of D. McDorman and G. Hickman in the 50 yards side stroke and fancy diving respectively proved to be a surprise. Anna Crew in the class for smaller girls was pushed hard by L. Deering whose work was noteworthy.

E. Bardo was over the 50 yards dash for older boys with W. Brown second. The underwater swimming attracted much attention and was won by W. Werber with E. Williams second. C. Crew continued to lead the smaller boys and is the high point winner to date.

The last Thursday meet will be held next week and will be followed by the Betterton Water Carnival on the 29th of August.

STANDS HIGH IN COLLEGE RANKS

Western Maryland College Graduates Accepted Without Examination in All Universities.

Sixty-five years ago there was started in Westminster, Md., a private academy. Six years later the work of enlarging it into a college was begun. Today, graduates from the Western Maryland College are admitted to universities all over the world and the college itself is classed as an A1 accredited college, than which there is no higher classification.

Men and women, who as boys and girls, hailed Western Maryland College as their alma mater, today hold high office in the state and nation. Some of them have become internationally known.

It led the way in that form of education in which the young men and young women enrolled are accepted as students on equal terms, are taught the same courses of study by the same faculty but are taught separately so far as practicable. Both men and women Western Maryland College.

Western Maryland College was the first in the state to build a gymnasium, employ a physical director and give the same great care to the development of the physical as to the mental.

In 1866 the college consisted of one main building. Today it consists of a collection of 26 buildings with an athletic field of five acres equipped for all branches of sport, and Western Maryland College teams have brought renown to the college and its student body.

The first session of the college opened with 73 students. In the years since then 1,206 men and women have been graduated—fitted for lives of usefulness and for positions of prominence in the profession, in the ministry and in business. About as many students have attended who did not remain for graduation.

In 1868 the General Assembly of Maryland granted a charter to the college, giving the trustees the power to hold property, elect a faculty and confer degrees "in any of the arts, sciences and liberal professions to which persons are usually admitted in any other colleges or universities in America."

In 1924 there were 496 students enrolled in the college departments, 221 of whom were Marylanders. Fifteen other eastern and southern states were represented by students and one foreign country, Japan. Of these students, the men and women were nearly equally divided.

In this fashion has Western Maryland College kept pace with the marvelous strides made in recent years by American colleges and universities. Dr. A. N. Ward, president of the college, says:

"It is the aim of Western Maryland College to do the very best grade of college work. Its purpose is to do work equal to that done by any college in America, where the courses of a college of liberal arts are pursued. Our graduates are now being accepted without examination by the leading universities of America and Europe."

CALL Home Rule Convention Ocean City Saturday, August 29, 1925

The Constitution of the United States reserves to the People the right peaceably to assemble and petition the government for a redress of grievances.

In pursuance of the right so reserved, the undersigned citizens of the Congressional District of Maryland, believing that the Federal Government at Washington has assumed to exercise powers which properly belong to the States, and that the exercise of these powers is destroying the right of the people of the entire Country, to have and enjoy a "Government with the consent of the Governed," and endangering the security of our institutions, do hereby call a Convention to be held at OCEAN CITY, MARYLAND, on the 29TH DAY OF AUGUST, 1925, the same to be known as the HOME RULE CONVENTION for the Eastern Shore of Maryland.

And we do earnestly request that the people of each County of this Congressional District appoint delegates to this Convention, with instructions to formulate, carefully consider and vote for resolutions which will make known to the Government at Washington the injurious effects of its unwise and unwarranted interference with the power of the people of this State to govern themselves and recommend to that Government ways and means for the alleviation of these injurious conditions and for the restoration of the privilege of local self government to the people of every State in the Union.

In witness whereof, we have hereunto subscribed our names.
