From Modest Beginning The James T. Mullin Store Has Become Second In Size In America.

Forty-five years of business success, with Harry Hill development from the very beginning, and with the absolute confidence of the people of Wilmington continually, is the splendid record of James T. Mullin & Sons, Inc., whose establishment, at the southeast corner of Sixth and Market streets, Wilmington, is not only a monument to its founder and those who have succeeded him, but also a cause for pride on the part of the people, the city and this entire trading territory. The building as it now stands is the second largest in the country whose business is devoted exclusively to the handling of men's wear. As a complete outfitter for men and boys the Mullin establishment has few equals. The scope of the business can be grasped from the amount of space devoted to it. The building is a block long, from Market street to King, and runs back on Market and King, streets as far as the old Town Hall.

The business has grown to such proportions, as a family partnership, that it has now been incorporated. The owners, however, being members of the family, fully paid up. J. Paul Mullin, who, ever since the death of his father, John S. Mullin, of the family and descendants of the founder. The corporation is capital-has been the active head of the store is president of the new company and manager of the business, devoting his entire time to it; Dr. John H. Mullin is Vice president; MacSammer Mullin is secretary, and Ruel S. Loomis, who has been connected with the business since boyhood, is treasurer. These officers, with J. Townsend Wicksham, treasurer of the New York Shipbuilding Co., of Camden, N. J., comprise the board of directors. The incorporation, it must be understood, has no significance, as far as the public is concerned, except that it means a more aggressive enforcement of the policy that is accountable for the development and success of the business. The same general basic principles will be followed.
