BEAUTIFUL HOMES ERECTED IN 1925

Charles N. Satterfield and wife are occupying their new home near Brooks' Mill. This is one of the latest models in residences here having a conservatory and other attractive features. It was built by the Pennington Construction Co., of Chestertown.

Another beautiful residence is that of W. P. Newnam on Washington avenue. It was built by Contractor Callahan under the direction of the Adkins Co. Mr. Newnam and his interesting family are now occupying this elegant home.

Ellsworth Newcomb, with his force of carpenters, will finish the cosy home on Washington avenue for Robert S. Crew, of Rock Hall, this week. It is compact with private rooms and finished in good taste. Mr. Crew and family will occupy same about February 1st.

These three residences, with that splendid and unique building erected by Frank E. Duyer for Philip G. Wilmer, on Water street, make up four distinct types of homes erected the past year, which add to the attractiveness of our beautiful and conservative "City on the Chester." Plans are being made for several more to be erected during 1926.

The Easton Gazette says: Mrs. Byrd is well-known in Easton, being the daughter of Mrs. Nora Shure, the assistant postmaster of Easton, and the grand daughter of the venerable Robert F. Walker. Mrs. Byrd is a graduate of Lawrence College, Appleton, Wis., and Wisconsin Conservatory of Music. She also attended the Peabody Conservatory in Baltimore. They will reside in Baltimore, Md."

The game of ice hockey scheduled for last Saturday with the well-known Walbrook Club of Baltimore, but postponed because of inferior ice, will be played to day at one o'clock this afternoon on the Urieville Pond, State Highway, five miles from Chestertown, near Kennedyville. Roger Pippen, sports editor of the Baltimore News, will lead his skating five against Dr. Randolph Faries' Washington College Club. Stanley Cofall will be on hand as will also Maury Eichelberger, skating ace of Baltimore. Eddie Keenan will defend the goal for the local boys. Motor out and see the setto. Admission free. The Baltimore players have offered to stage two games while they are here this afternoon. They will leave for Baltimore immediately after the match. Since Walbrook has had a successful season, defeating a strong Philadelphia squad, as well as Baltimore teams, and since "Doc" Faries' lads are primed for the contest today there should be some sensational work and snappy skating around the rink. MOVING DAYS

Those moving days in October
And moving days in May
Are passed in cities unnoticed
As the vans speed ontheir way.
The vans are closed and protected
And none but the movers care
Whether they're coming or going,
Or who is moving and where.
But there's pathos in country moving
That comes the first of the year,
When the roads are rutted and frozen
And the weather is cold and drear.
There, one's Lares and penates
Are exposed to the curious eye,
As the open wagons slowly pass
With the household goods piled high.
The most luxurious furniture
Would look forlorn in a cart
Around the first of January
To any home–loving heart.
But country–hearts must be stout hearts,
They neither quake nor weep
That they must move in the winter-time
While the ground is sound asleep

DR. COPELAND BREAKS 2 RIBS

Dr. H. P. Copeland while enroute to Easton Hospital Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Raymond Sutton, of Chestertown, a patient, was run into by a truck coming out of a side lane and badly wrecked. The doctor received two broken ribs while his car was damaged about $400. His patient escaped without a scratch. The journey was continued, by help of friends, to Easton where the doctor's injuries were attended to and he has been serving his patients without interruption since. The icy roads was partly responsible for the accident.

Iron Bars Do Not Hold John Blackwell In Prison

Sheriff Goodman is on the search for John Blackwell, a colored prisoner held for larceny, who escaped from Chestertown jail Wednesday evening at 6 o'clock. This man has been a terror to all the prisoners who are glad he is gone. He is an eater of fire, a mesmerizer, etc. By using the almost superhuman strength he twisted off a bar of his cell, climbed through and jumped fifteen feet to the street and freedom.

About 7.30 o'clock he appeared in Crumpton, nine miles from here, and, walking into the store of D. F. Coleman, he demanded some cigarettes. The proprietor, believing him armed handed him several packages whereupon Blackwell walked out and has not been seen since.

Of the eighteen prisoners in the jail at the present time one other tried to follow Blackwell. He had climbed to the window and was making his way between the bars when Sheriff Goodman appeared and ordered him back. None of the others tried to get away.

This is the second time within three weeks that Blackwell has escaped from the jail here. He was arrested at Millington three weeks ago for the alleged theft of $49 from William Johnson, colored, and locked up here on a Sunday morning. That same evening he sawed the bars on the bath room window and with one other prisoner jumped to freedom. He was later surrounded in a house at Peacock's Corner where he had barricaded himself. Although heavily armed he surrendered without offering resistance.

He lives near Millington and the officers believes he is now in hiding in that vicinity. He came to Kent from Norfolk.

The Bramble Poultry Farm will begin its hatching season today, Saturday, and will continue uninterruptedly until the last of July.
