AID TO BEAUTY

Under this young woman's skillful hands the front of the Administration Building of the Sesqui-Centennial International Exposition Association quickly takes on a delightful aspect. She directs gardeners where to place the small trees and shrubs about the great stucco building. She is doing her share to make the big celebration of the 150th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence a success.

AMERICAN YOUTH

Elizabeth ("Betty") Clark, 13, of Cedars, Delaware, is one of that state's girl candidates for the American Youth Award, established by the directors of the Sesqui-Centennial International Exposition, to be held at Philadelphia from June 1 to December 1 in observance of 150 years of American Independence. If "Betty" is finally chosen to represent Delaware she will be given a week's trip to the Exposition and to Washington and the White House, where she will receive a medal from the hands of President Coolidge.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Levina Bullen Fogg
vs.
Lewis T. Fogg

In the Circuit Court for Kent County
In Equith, No. 2408.

The object of the Bill filed in the above entitled case is to procure a Decree for divorce a vinculo matrimonii.

The Bill states:

1. That on the 11th day of August. 1921, Levina Bullen Fogg was married to the said Lewis T. Fogg in Elkton, Maryland, by the Rev. W. R. Moon, and she resided with her said husband, Lewis T. Fogg, at interrupted intervals in Kent County Maryland. until April 14, 1923.

2. That although the conduct of your Oratrix towards her husband the said Lewis T. Fogg, has always been kind. affectionate and above reproach. the said Lewis T. Fogg has without any just cause or reason, failed at all times since their marriage to contribute anything towards her maintenance and support and without any just cause or reason, on April 14. 1923. abandoned and deserted her; that such abandonment has continued uninterruptedly for more than three years; that the same is deliberate and final and the separation of the parties beyond any reasonable expectations of a reconciliation.

3. That no children were born to your Oratrix and the said Lewis T. Fogg as a result of said marriage and your Oratrix has always behaved herself as an affectionate, kind and chatse wife towards the said Lewis T. Fogg.

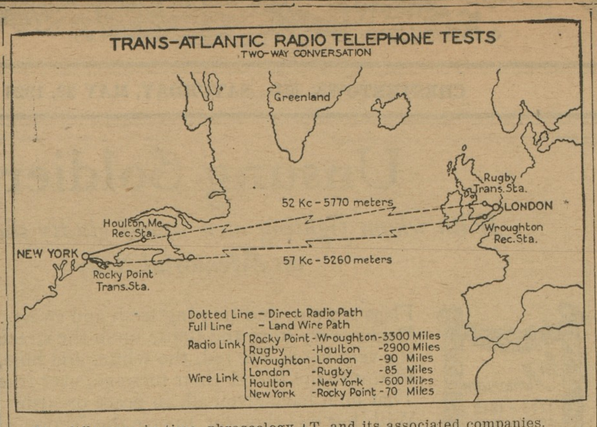

4. That your Oratrix has been a resident of Kent County, State of Maryland, for more than two years last past and and she believes that the said Lewis T. Fogg is now living in the State of New Jersey, he being a non-resident of th State of Maryland.

It is thereupon, this 29th day of April A. D. 1926, ordered by the Circuit Court for Kent County, in Equity, that the Plaintiff. by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in said Kent County. once in each of four successive weeks before the 31st day of May next, give notice to the said Lewis T. Fogg, non-resident defendant. warning him to appear in this Court in person. or by Solicitor, on or before the 15th day of June next. to show cause, if any he has, why a Decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

TRANS-ATLANTIC RADIO TELEPHONE TESTS
TWO-WAY CONVERSATION

The difference in time, phraseology, pronounciation and wave lengths played an important part in the recent transatlantic radio telephone tests. Eleven o'clock A. M. in New York is four o'clock P. M. in London, while differences of phraseology and pronunciation added interest to the conversations from the standpoint of the listeners-in.

"Americans invariably begin their conversations with the typically Yankee, 'Hello,' while now and then some Londoner used the equally typical 'Are you there?' To the 'Goodbye' of the New Yorkers the Londoners were more likely than not to answer 'Cherio!'" says R. T. Barrett in his article, "Opening the Windows of the World."

In transmitting eastward, the speech is carried from New York over land lines to the transmitting station of the Radio Corporation of America, at Rocky Point, Long Island, a distance of some seventy miles. From this point it is transmitted by radio a distance of 3,300 miles to a receiving station of the British General Post Office at Wroughton, England, about seventy miles southeast of London. The landline circuits of the British Post Office carry the speech current over this lap of the journey to the London headquarters.

In transmitting westward, the speech is carried over seventy miles of telephone lines to Rugby, northwest of London, and there picked up by the newly-built radio transmitting station of the British postal service, which transmits it through the ether to a receiving station at Houlton, Maine. This radio link is 2,900 miles in length. From Houlton to New York, the speech is carried over 600 miles of telephone circuits of the A. T. and T. and its associated companies.

The radio transmission from Rocky Point is on a wave length of 5,260 meters and the transmission from Rugby is on a wave length of 5,770 meters. The power used in transmitting from each end is about 100 kilowatts. Due to a special system employed in these tests, an output to the transmitting antenna of 100 kilowatts is as efficient as 300 kilowatts would be under the system commonly used for radio telephone purposes.

The present series of tests is a continuation of the experiments begun three years ago and is being carried out to determine the possibilities of giving regular transatlantic telephone service. It is simply a phase of the study of the problem of overcoming the great difficulty in long distance radio telephone transmission—the extreme variations in received signals due to continuously changing conditions in the intervening space.

At times, transmission conditions in America, in England and throughout the area that separates them are so good that even comparatively low power broadcasting stations in one country can be picked up by radio listeners in the other. At other times, conditions are so poor that no reception can be had.

In their statements to the press, telephone officials of both countries have made clear that it is not possible to predict how soon transoceanic telephone service can be made available. It is perfectly obvious that much intensive work remains to be done before an American telephone subscriber can take his receiver off its hook and call up a friend in London or vice versa. This work is under way—the test of March 7 was a part of it—and will continue

1ST AMERICAN YOUTH ENTRY

Edith May Adams, eighteen-year-old Barrington, N. J., girl, presenting her entry blank to Mayor Kendrick in his office at City Hall, Philadelphia. The American Youth and Teacher Award was established as a tribute to American youth and teachers by the Board of Directors of the Sesqui-Centennial International Exposition, through which the people of the United States and the world at large will celebrate the 150th anniversary of the Declaration of American Independence. The exposition will run from June 1 to December 1. Miss Adams' entry blank cited her for heroism displayed recently when she remained inside a burning building helping doctors render first aid to injured firemen. She is a candidate for the Golden Eaglette, the highest gift within the hands of the Girl Scouts. Each state will elect a girl and boy and one teacher to represent them and the successful candidates will be the guest of the Sesqui officials from June 28 to July 5 at the exposition. This will also include a trip to Washington where they will be received by President Coolidge and presented with medals.
